ITALY PRESSES CLAIMS

Mediterranean Prisoner In Revolt

ROME, March 30.—Premier Mussolini today affirmed Italy's intention not to remain "a prisoner in the Mediterranean" while Fascists studied with disfavor last night's address of Premier Daladier of France.

Virginio Gayda, leading Fascist editor, summed up Italian reaction to Daladier's speech with the assertion the French premier wanted to "shut tight the half - closed d o o r" to French - Italian negotiations.

Il Duce spoke only briefly during an inspection tour of Calabria, the province in the toe of Italy.

Gayda, who wrote in Il Giornale D'Italia, tempered his comment with the statement: "Italy is not impatient. She can wait and she waits. . . . History will one day tell whether this has not decisive value in the present dramatic moment of Europe which would clarify and secure positions once for all."

"It is clear by now," Gayda continued, "that the French government does not wish to discuss further either territories or rights. It wishes to separate itself from Italy and stiffen itself with its never'.

CONSIDER PROBLEM

"So nothing remains but to consider the problem of Italo-French relations — still open from its foundation and aggravated — and pass on to other subjects without, however, taking our eyes off that problem for an instant."

At Cozens, where Il Duce halted briefly, he told the assembled townspeople that Italy "does not intend to remain a prisoner in the Mediterranean."

His brief speech concluded with:

NAZI TROOPS CONCENTRATE NEAR POLAND

Representatives of Dominions Called Into Conference in London

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 30.—Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in the United Kingdom, and representatives of the other dominions, were called into consultation tonight with Sir Thomas Inskip, secretary for the Dominions, as reports reached London of German troop concentrations along the Polish border.

According to these reports concentrations were heaviest toward Danzig on the Baltic. The German army has not been demobilized since the occupation of Czecho-Slovakia.

One explanation offered here was the possibility of Germany attempting to dissuade the Polish foreign minister, Joseph Beck, from joining the proposed anti-aggression pact.

Premier Starts Off Debate On International Affairs

OTTAWA, March 30.—No dominion of the British Empire gave any undertaking to send troops or to support Great Britain in a war arising out of the September crisis over Czecho - Slovakia, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons today.

Canada's position during the crisis was not less favorable to Britain than that taken by Australia, New Zealand, Ireland and South Africa.

Mr. King reaffirmed his previous statement that in the event of war Canada's participation would be decided by parliament. As Prime Minister he would not engage in advance to lead Canada into war.

Mr. King said he proposed to adhere closely to a prepared text and promised to answer questions later.

Opposition To Bloc Appears

By ROBERT B. PARKER, JR.
Associated Press Foreign Staff

WARSAW, March 29.—Poland, reluctant to join Great Britain and France in a bloc against Germany, has started talks with the Nazis to settle future status of the free city of Danzig, it was learned last night.

It was understood the conversations were intended by the Warsaw and Berlin governments to attempt satisfaction of Germany's desire for greater authority over the free city and at the same time guarantee Poland's heavy economic interests there.

Danzig, a city of more than 400,000 population, is largely German. To give Poland, who won her independence in the Great War, an outlet to the sea, the Baltic port was taken from Germany and made a free city under protection of the League of Nations.

A slice of former German territory, known as the Polish corridor, also was given Poland so she could have access to the port which until recent years handled nearly all Poland's foreign seaborne commerce.

Danzig already is dominated by Danzig Nazis who succeeded in gaining political power there.

The government-news agency today distributed a statement that an understanding with Germany over

DALADIER WINS APPROVAL FOR DIRECT SPEECH

Even Premier's Political Enemies Endorse His Stand

PARIS, March 30. — Premier Edouard Daladier's strong declaration that France would cede "not a foot of our land nor one of our rights" to Italy seemed today to have won both popular and political acclaim.

Even the premier's political enemies endorsed his stand — that France would yield no territory, that she would negotiate colonial and other differences with Italy if Italy took the initial step, and that France was strong enough to defend herself.

BLUM APPROVES

The Socialist Leon Blum, who frequently has opposed the more conservative Radical - Socialist, Daladier, declared "we approve of this language." (Blum spoke for his party.)

The general comment was "now it is up to the Axis" of Italy and Germany. Daladier, in his address which was broadcast last night, struck also at Germany, whose break-up of Czecho-Slovakia two weeks ago, he said, was a "heavy blow" to efforts for peace.

Daladier's speech answered that of Premier Mussolini last Sunday, in which the Italian leader contended Italian claims in Tunisia, Djibouti and the Suez Canal were presented by diplomatic note last December 17.

As though to give punch to Daladier's calm estimate of French military strength, Colonial Minister Mandel told the Senate France had doubled her colonial army within a year by tapping a "black reservoir" of manpower in central Africa and reserves in Indo-China.

Mandel's estimate meant that France's colonies—exclusive of North Africa and the far east, where her largest forces are concentrated—had a standing army of between 150,000 and 200,000 men.

LLOYD W. RYAN ON TRIAL FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Faces Count In Montana Death Jan. 29—Alternative Charge

Lloyd W. Ryan, Edmonton business man, went on trial Thursday in supreme court before Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing on a charge of manslaughter arising out of an automobile accident on the intersection of Jasper avenue and 112 street at 7:30 o'clock on the evening of January 29.

The charge arose out of the death of Alexandra Montana, who died of injuries received when struck by an automobile allegedly operated by the accused.

SECOND CHARGE

Mr. Ryan also faces alternative charges of driving in a manner dangerous to the public.

The morning session was occupied with the presentation of plans of the scene of the accident, and the hearing of evidence of Dr. John McGregor, University of Alberta, who performed the autopsy on the deceased. He told the court there was .118 per inch of alcohol in the deceased's brain.

Alex Ruryk, who was crossing the intersection with Montana at the time of the accident, told the court he heard a car horn sounding a warning, and ran clear of the auto. He did not see Montana hit, the first intimation of the accident being the sound of the contact between the car and deceased. The hearing is proceeding.

Alberta Auditor's Report On E. I. D. Submitted In House

Propriety of Unauthorized Expenditures on Lakeland Farm is Questioned—Loans Also Are in Limelight

Questioning the propriety of expenditures on the Lakelands Farm and questioning the authority for making certain loans, O. M. Plunkett, acting assistant provincial auditor, filed a report with the provincial government on an examination of the books of the Eastern Irrigation District at Brooks, which was tabled in the legislature on Wednesday by Premier William Aberhart. The report finds that some transactions were omitted from board minutes and that the manager held shares in subsidiary companies.

Based on this report, Premier Aberhart last week made a statement in which he declared that provincial auditor's report disclosed "serious irregularities" by the manager and board of trustees of the E.I.D. and that an investigation was under way.

The report was made available to the legislature by the premier when questioned by W. E. Hayes, Stony Plain, who rose on Order-of-the-Day.

Preceding tabling, a brief discussion took place, with Mr. Hayes asking that the report be tabled.

The report is dated December 21, 1938. It is addressed to Hon. Solon Low, provincial treasurer.

GRAY RESIGNS

E. L. Gray, Alberta Liberal leader, recently resigned as manager of the Eastern Irrigation Project.

In writing his report, Mr. Plunkett states that "As instructed, I have examined the books of the Eastern Irrigation District with reference to the following matters:

"(a)—Expenditure on farm improvements and farming operations.

"(b)—Transactions of the Irrigation Development Land Company.

"(c)—Transactions with Lakelands Limited.

"(d)—Transactions with the Bazetta.

Reinstatement Trustees For E.I.D. Demand

BROOKS, Alta., March 30. — The "big committee" consisting of men largely responsible for formation of the Eastern Irrigation District has sent a telegram to the Alberta government urging immediate reinstatement of the three suspended E.I.D. trustees.

The committee, representing nearly all the contract water users, asked that Carl Anderson, Scandia; Robert Scott, Tilley, and Henry Dahl, Duchess, be reinstated.

The message said:

"Farmers were not opposed to the actions of the trustees in any way, but desired the government to conduct a thorough investigation, and if there were any irregularities they would be brought to light, and if not, the board would be completely cleared."

Annual meeting of the E.I.D. will be held here tomorrow. Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, is expected to attend.

Government May Operate Marts For Livestock

Power to establish and operate public livestock markets is provided in the livestock bill sponsored in the Alberta legislature by Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture. The bill is expected to be considered in committee either on Thursday or Friday.

Upon the establishment of such public markets, the lieutenant-governor-in-council may prohibit "any person from keeping or conducting or operating any public market for the sale of livestock or of any designated livestock within any specified part of the province."

The governor-in-council is also empowered to regulate such markets and appoint their managers or boards.

Ticket Scalping Is Reported For Big Hockey Game

Many ticket scalpers have been profiting from the heavy demand for seats at Thursday night's hockey tegm between Brandon and E.A.C., it was learned after the rush of purchases ended Thursday morning.

To curb this activity, sales of tickets were limited after the first 10 minutes to six to a customer. One man reported he had to pay $5.25 for four 75-cent tickets, after being too late to buy them at the regular sale.

Ticket sale for Saturday's game will open at 8 a.m. Friday instead of Saturday, at Mike's News Stand, according to W. G. Harris, in charge of the sale. No telephone reservations will be accepted and the sale will be on the basis of first come first served.

Drama Shows Half Century History Here

Commerce Chamber Marks 50th Anniversary—300 Attend

Half a century of Edmonton's history was unfolded in narrative and drama at a banquet in the Macdonald hotel Wednesday evening, in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of incorporation of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce.

The early west was made to live again for the many old timers among the gathering of 300 and pages of history came to life for younger men as the city's development was traced from a tiny village of 600 to its present standing as a provincial capital of 90,000 population.

Under chairmanship of E. H. Ayling, president of the Chamber of Commerce, the celebration was unique in being a "banquet without a speech."

FIGHT FOR PROGRESS

The dramatized romance of Edmonton's development featured the work of the early Board of Trade and the later Chamber of Commerce in its fights for the city's progress.

"I assure you," Mr. Ayling said at the conclusion, "that our aims and ideals have not changed in the slightest since the inception of our organization. We still have unquenchable faith in the progress and future of Edmonton."

Among those at the head table were Hon. J. C. Bowen, lieutenant-governor of Alberta; Hon. D. B. Mullen, Alberta minister of agriculture; Mayor John W. Fry and many past presidents of the chamber.

Greetings and felicitations were received from Welaskiwin, St. Paul, Montreal, Vancouver and Saskatoon boards of trade.

Gray Says Better Market Will Boost Figure Over 60 Cents

The federal government's announced policy of guaranteeing the price of wheat at 60 cents a bushel has been misunderstood, said E. L. Gray, Alberta Liberal leader, as that figure forms the "initial, not a fixed price."

Mr. Gray spoke briefly Wednesday night at a meeting of the Edmonton provincial Liberal Association, at which Edward C. Fisher, president, was chairman.

Resolutions which are to be submitted to the provincial executive as "suggestions" for the party platform were discussed at the meeting.

Mr. Gray said he was in close touch with the federal government about its wheat policy and wanted it to be clear that the national government was not going to content itself simply with sixty cent wheat but was going to press its search for new and larger markets.

REGULATION PIPE LINES IS ADVOCATED

Hon. E. C. Manning Introduces Bills—Much Legislation Advanced

Legislation for the regulation of pipe lines for petroleum and petroleum products, together with a bill to fix prices of petroleum products was sponsored on Wednesday by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry.

This legislation was included in a grist of six new bills brought into the house.

In a busy day devoted largely to discussion of legislation, the house reported five bills for third reading. Included in this number was the new bill amending and consolidating the Coal Mines regulation act. Another was the bill establishing a central purchasing agency for government departments.

IMPLEMENT REPORT

In introducing his two bills respecting petroleum pipe lines and products, Mr. Manning said they were intended to implement the interim report of the McGillivray Royal commission, which is investigating the oil industry. The interim report was tabled this week.

Mr. Manning's first bill provided for the regulation of pipe lines carrying petroleum and petroleum products. The other measure provides authority for the fixing of prices of petroleum products Neither bill has yet been printed.

Other news acts introduced were to amend the Co-Operative Marketing act, amend the Land Titles act, Changes in the Co-Operative Association Marketing act provide for dropping of members who do not carry out provisions within a specified time.

DEFEAT MOTION

In reporting the new coal mines act for third reading, the house in committee of the whole defeated a motion to strike out clauses authorizing issuance of class A and B certificates to miners.

Members stated there was much criticism and support of the system and Hon N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, sponsor of the bill, said the step was being taken in the interests of safety.

The committee approved amendment requiring that to prevent cages falling down a shaft when a rope broke, each cage must be equipped with safety catches.

The central purchasing bill, also advanced to third reading, permits establishing of an agency under a director of purchases, to make purchases for various government departments. An advisory purchasing committee also can be established under the bill.

BILLS ADVANCED

Amends to the public industries act and the water resources act and appropriations bill, authorizing the financing of the government for the next year, also were advanced to third reading.

Progress in committee was made on the Special Areas Act. Providing for appointment of a permanent three-man board, the act consolidates activities of various departments in administrating affairs in drought areas. The board will be under the department of lands and mines.

Bill providing for licensing of auctioneers, amending and consolidating the dental association act and the public service vehicles act were among the measures receiving second reading. The dental bill will be discussed before the agricultural committee tomorrow.

Great Livestock Industry For East Canada By Use Surplus Grain Proposed

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, March 30.—Solution of western Canada's grain surplus problem by using excess grain as feed to build up a great livestock industry in the east was proposed Wednesday to the eastern Canada agricultural conference by S. J. Chagnon, extension director of the Quebec department of agriculture.

Declaring his proposed "national policy of grain marketing" would benefit all Canada, Mr. Chagnon said it would have the following specific advantages:

1. Offer an outlet for the western surplus.

2. Make possible export of finished products and help reduce unemployment through extra labor needed to distribute grain and feed, finish and process the livestock.

3. Decrease, if not altogether check, the "export of our fertility to other lands."

4. Help develop a profitable agriculture in eastern Canada.

"NATIONAL" BENEFITS

With economical distribution of the surplus, if expenses were involved or bonuses called for, public opinion would support the scheme because of its "national" benefits, Mr. Chagnon said. It might eventually lead to the feeding in the east of 100,000,000 to 200,000,000 bushels of western foodstuffs.

"The principle of a bonus for wheat, used as an emergency measure, cannot be regarded as a permanent solution," he declared. Continued bonusing of wheat would lead to its production at expense of other grains necessary to a prosperous livestock industry.

The convention heard Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner forecast steps by the Dominion government to bring about better conditions in the dairy industry. The minister expressed hope that, "by legislation or otherwise," the administration would be able shortly to make possible "a closer association between the organized processers in Canada in relation to the dairy industry." He could not disclose details for a few days.

URGES SELF-ASSISTANCE

The minister urged delegates proceed with a greater degree of co-operative organization among themselves to better farm conditions, rather than depend too completely on governments for help.

"Governments can't do half what producers could do if they were properly organized."

He expressed hope that in Canada the various branches of the farm industry, with help of provincial governments and by cooperative organization, could make possible to market their products "to much better advantage" than at present.

Claims Bluenose Captain Settled

BOSTON, March 30. — An attorney for Captain Angus Walters of Lunenburg, N.S., whose salt banker Bluenose captured the International Fishermen's races off Massachusetts last fall, announced last night all Walters' claims against sponsors of the contest had been "satisfactorily settled." Details were not disclosed by the attorney, C. W. Crooker of Boston, but it appeared to end a five-month wrangle over Walters' contention the race committee owed him $6,000 in prize money.

COLLEGE PLAYS LEAD ROLE IN CIVIC HISTORY

Characters Of Future Leaders Are Moulded At Historic School

As the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce has been an important factor in the moulding of Edmonton during the past 50 years, so Alberta College, now under the leadership of Dr. F. S. McCall, B.A., D.D., has played an important part in the moulding of those young people who have played an important part in the city's past and will play an even more important part in the future.

A pioneer in the field of education, Alberta College was organized here in 1903 under the direction of Dr. J. H. Riddell, Wesley College, Winnipeg. During the first year classes were held in temporary quarters, but the following year, 1904, the first wing of the old landmark on 101 street was built.

PROGRESS RAPID

Progress was rapid. Additions were necessary, and finally, in the fall of 1928 the new brick building on McDougall Drive was erected—the first wing of what will one day be an impressive educational institution.

Dr. McCall joined the staff of the college in 1908, being appointed principal in 1913. Under his direction the college has expanded until this year more than 1,200 students are enrolled in classes of various kinds. In all, 32,250 students have received training in the college, and many have taken their place in the public life of Edmonton and Alberta. Situated in the heart of the city it makes an ideal residence for out of town students.

Besides regular academic subjects, Alberta College offers classes in commercial subjects such as book-keeping, shorthand, secretarial work, as well as in music and elocution.

Under competent directors both the girls and boys are encouraged to take part in athletics, and other recreational activities approved by the school leaders.

Worker Injured

George McLean, 56, of 8602 79 street, was cut on the head when a brick fell on him Wednesday afternoon while he was working as a bricklayer on the new T. Eaton Company Western Ltd. building on 101 street. He was taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital where X-rays were used to determine any further injuries.

the past 35 years ago, was unable to attend due to illness and a message of sympathy was sent from the gathering.

At the time of the incorporation of the board of Trade, March 30, 1889, Edmonton had a population of 600, 60 farms in the district, raising 3,700 bushels of wheat, an equal amounts of barley and twice as much oats, it was recalled.

OLIVER PRAISED

"No other man contributed more to the development of the west than Frank Oliver, founder of The Edmonton Bulletin," the narrator said.

The early struggles of the community were portrayed in drama, with Frank Oliver in the east boosting the west for settlement. Matt McCauley, who later became first mayor of the town, carrying a petition in 1890 to get a bridge built across the North Saskatchewan river.

The petition headed by the name of John Cameron, first president of the board of trade, bore 250 names.

The settlement's plan was first turned down but later acceded to when the citizens raised a contribution of $25,000 in a single day.

INCORPORATED

In 1892 Edmonton was incorporated as a town and Matt McCauley became first mayor by acclamation.

Stirring and tense scenes, when the North-West Mounted Police and a citizens' guard were needed to keep order, when Edmonton and Strathcona battled for the right to have the Dominion land office.

Edmonton' first golf club was opened in 1896 and A. J. Balfour, of London, Eng., invited to be its patron.

Gold in the Yukon in 1897 and 1898 brought prospectors flooding through Edmonton and many of them on their return settled here, taking up farms or businesses.

A momentous occasion was the entry of the C.P.R. to South Edmonton, which the railway named Strathcona.

The inauguration of Edmonton as a city occurred in 1904 and as Alberta's capital in 1905.

When the Great War broke out in 1914, Edmonton sent five battalions overseas, the 49th, 51st, 131st, Irish Guards and 218th.

EYES NORTH

Following the war Edmonton's eyes turned northward looking to the vast resources of the North West Territories. It was plain that air transportation must be the key to the opening up and development of this land and in 1931 an airport was built with hangar and facilities for night landings.

The Chamber of Commerce successfully urged the Dominion to establish landing bases at Fort Smith, Fitzgerald, Chipewyan, Rae and other northern posts.

In 1937 the Chamber sponsored a new, $33,000 airport bylaw which passed with a sweeping majority.

Missing records of the Board of Trade's work from 1892 to 1894 were presented to the president at the banquet by W. J. Bown, son of Dr. J. C. F. Bown, K.C., late city solicitor.

Records for the dramatic presentation were prepared by John Blue, secretary-manager of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce and the program was arranged by Colin D. McKenzie, first vice-president.

Gable, Lombard Married In Arizona Wednesday; Honeymoon To Be Brief

KINGMAN, Ariz., March 29.—Clark Gable and Carole Lombard, two of the brightest of all Hollywood's film stars, were married here at 5:40 p.m. Wednesday by the Rev. Kenneth M. Engle of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

The couple walked into the marriage license bureau about an hour before the ceremony and so startled the clerk, Miss Viola Olsen, she could hardly speak.

"I recognized Mr. Gable at once," she said later, "but I certainly was surprised to see them."

Gable drove his automobile from Hollywood, but he and Miss Lombard did not inform their friends of their elopement plans.

IN GREY ENSEMBLE

Miss Lombard wore a grey flannel ensemble, Gable a blue suit.

Howard Cate, principal of Kingman High school, and Mrs. Engle, the minister's wife, were the only witnesses to the ceremony.

Cate said Gable told him he and his bride would motor on to Boulder City, Nev., last night and spend today at Boulder Dam. They probably will go back to Hollywood Friday, as Gable must resume work in the film, "Gone With the Wind," in which he plays the role of Rhett Butler.

It was Gable's third marriage and Miss Lombard's second.

Gable's second wife obtained a divorce at Las Vegas, Nev., last March 7 after establishing the necessary six-weeks' residence. Some time previously Gable reached a $286,000 property settlement with the second Mrs. Gable, the former Maria Langham.

FORMER MRS. POWELL

Miss Lombard divorced actor William Powell in 1933. They married in 1931.

Gable's true name is William C. Gable and Miss Lombard's is Jane Peters, but her present name has been legalized.

He is 38 years of age and she is 31. They met in 1932 when they appeared together in the film "No Man of Her Own," and then met socially at a 1933 party after she divorced Powell.

Miss Lombard calls Gable "Moose" or "Pappy." He calls her "The Madam."

Gable and his second wife, Maria, separated in 1935.

LONDON, March 30—The Royal crown and robes will be taken to Canada only if the parliament at Ottawa is ready for prorogation when the King and Queen are there.

The Princes crowns and regalia will not be taken if the session is not to be concluded during the royal stay in the capital, it was reliably learned.

Date Budget To Be Delivered Is Not Made Known

Re-Employment Of Partially Disabled Persons Advocated

WINNIPEG, March 30.—Necessity of a nation-wide scheme to provide re-employment for workers partially disabled in accidents was stressed by Dr. H. H. Hepburn of Edmonton when the American College of Surgeons opened its three-day convention here Wednesday.

Dr. Hepburn, associate professor of surgery at the University of Alberta, recommended that every workman under the jurisdiction of a workman's compensation act be medically examined at the time of employment and once a year thereafter.

Act Amendment Paves Way For Credit Unions

TORONTO, March 30. — Legislation permitting incorporation of credit unions, with the primary purpose of promoting thrift among persons having a common bond of occupation, was presented to the legislature Wednesday by Attorney-General Gordon Conant.

Coming by way of an amendment to the Companies' Act, the new legislation permits a common fund of savings, realized by sale of shares to members and deposits made by such members. This fund then becomes available to members, either as a basis for loans or as a fund for investment of earnings, accruing to members of the credit union by way of dividends.

G. M'CULLAGH GROUP THREAT TO DEMOCRACY

C.C.F. Speaker Hints League Trying To Get Fascist Control

Leadership League started by George S. McCullagh, of Toronto, may end in becoming a threat to democracy and the parent of Fascism in Canada, charged Harold Winch, C.C.F., M.L.A. in the B.C. legislature when addressing a C.C.F. meeting Wednesday night in the Masonic Temple.

Mr. Winch was speaking on "Canada and the C.C.F." and reported on impressions of the national scene gathered during a speaking tour of the country he is now completing.

He said that if Mr. McCullagh thinks it is possible to govern Canada by abolishing the provincial legislatures, he is unaware of the realities of Canadian public life.

IMPOSSIBLE PLAN

"The very size of Canada, as well as the special problems of the various provinces, make it impossible to have such centralized government control take place," he declared.

"You people in Alberta would not consent to have the legislature abolished and be ruled solely by the federal government," he added.

Nor could the saving be effected by such an elimination of provincial legislatures amount to much, he went on, for there would still have to be civil servants and administrators in the various provinces.

"All that really would be saved would be the cost of legislation and that is negligible. In British Columbia, for example, the cost is only about $100,000 a year."

BIG BUSINESS

"But if the legislature were abolished," warned Mr. Winch, "think how much easier it would be for Mr. McCullagh and his Leadership League, which I regard as the instrument of big business, to impose their will on Canada."

"It is much easier to take over the democratic institutions of the country, and place them under conditions resembling Fascist control, when all government powers are conveniently centred in one government in Ottawa than when they are divided up between the governments across the whole country, each one of which is vigilant in protection of its own rights," Mr. Winch stated.

Mr. Winch said that the Leadership League should be watched lest it develop into an anti-democratic organization.

But the interest aroused in the League, Mr. Winch admitted, is a sign that people in Canada "want leadership," even though the particular brand offered may be "the wrong leadership."

Policy of the C.C.F., he argued, forms the surest means of ensuring prosperity in the Dominion.

Opposition

Danzig is possible because "our people can understand vital interests of neighbors."

At the same time it was stressed here Poland will oppose "by all means" outright German annexation of the port.

It has been persistently reported Germany had suggested negotiations on outright cession of Danzig to Germany without reference to the League, a sovereign German motor road across the Polish corridor connecting East Prussia with Germany proper, increased Polish trade to Germany and Polish adherence to the anti-comintern pact.

Duce Revolts

"Comrades, be ready in every instant of your lives, as Fascists and Italians, worthy of and faithful to his (Blanchi's) memory."

Continued deadlock in the French-Italian dispute over colonial compensations for Italy was considered by political circles today to be the principal asset of Premier Edouard Daladiers broadcast last night.

Daladier's declaration of French willingness to "examine propositions that might be made," short of the cession of land or "rights," was regarded as conciliatory, but Fascists said it did nothing to resolve the stalemate.

Britain Welcomes Daladier's Speech

LONDON, March 30.—Great Britain welcomed the speech of Premier Daladier of France last night as showing French determination not to be intimidated in the least by German threats or Italian claims.

The Daily Herald (Labor) said the speech "surprised even the French politicians by its challenging ring" and "it sounded more like a fighting speech than anything heard from the lips of a French statesman for many days."

CHICAGO, March 30—The Daily Times, a tabloid, used this banner line Wednesday on Premier Daladier's speech:

"Premier Warns Duce: Fifty Million Frenchmen Can't Be Wrong."

Gray Leaves City

E. L. Gray, Alberta Liberal leader, left for Brooks Wednesday night, where he will attend the annual meeting of the Eastern Irrigation District Friday. John J. Bowlen, Liberal member of the legislature for Calgary, will act as party house leader in Mr. Gray's absence.

80 On Friday

SEN. GEORGE F. GRAHAM

OTTAWA, March 30.—Rt. Hon. George P. Graham, the best loved man in the Senate, will be eighty years young Friday. Thursday the stenographic staff of the Senate capiured him and tendered him a birthday party in the parliamentary restaurant, with birthday cake and the trimmings.

E. I. D. REPORT OPENS CLASHES IN LEGISLATURE

Clashes resounded in the legislature on Wednesday when affairs of the Eastern Irrigation District came up for discussion once more. Premier William Aberhart and E. L. Gray, Alberta Liberal leader, were involved in the rapid-fire exchanges that took place.

Discussion revolved around a special report on the books of the E.I.D., made by O. M. Plunkett, acting assistant provincial auditor and tabled by Premier Aberhart.

Soon after the house opened, W. E. Hayes, S., Stony Plain, rose and asked whether it would be possible to have the auditor's report tabled in the house, in view of conflicting reports circulating in regard to the District.

In reply, the premier declared that such action would clear the atmosphere as there was "Considerable misunderstanding abroad."

Continuing, he declared that "I want it clearly understood that there is no idea on my part of attacking any member of this house or slurring the character of anyone. I simply acted on the suggestion of the officials of this government and the report of the auditors."

Mr. Gray asked if the premier also would table the final report for the year.

The premier replied that "That had nothing to do with the government. It is the report for the E. I. D. Mr. Gray is the manager of the E. I. D."

Mr. Gray then questioned the premier as to the government's authority to interfere with operations of the E. I. D.

In reply, the premier declared that it was a special report, requested by the provincial treasurer.

Mr. Gray asked for further information on this point and Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, declared that the "Eastern Irrigation District act gives us the right to make any audits that are deemed necessary from year to year, in addition to the regular audit each year for the E. I. D."

Mr. Gray: "Who is 'us'?"

LOW EXPLAINS

Mr. Low replied that "The provincial auditor, who may be directed by the government.

At this point Mr. Speaker Peter Dawson intervened, stating that such matters were not debatable.

Gerald O'Connor, Liberal, stated that the house had part of the story and should have the rest.

Premier Aberhart then rose and requested a page boy to go to his secretary and bring the report.

The page boy returned, shortly with the report and the premier tabled it.

DECISION NOT YET REACHED IN GRAY CASE

No decision had been made by R. P. Wallace, clerk of the court, Thursday morning whether to issue the statement of claim tendered by the law firm of Griesbach, O'Connor & O'Connor on behalf of Edward Leslie Gray, M.L.A., Liberal leader, seeking $15,000 damages against Hon. William Aberhart and Hon. E. C. Manning.

G. B. O'Connor, K.C., counsel for Mr. Gray, stated "that, probably a formal demand for a decision from the clerk of the court would be made Thursday, and in the event of refusal to issue the statement of claim a writ of mandamus will be sought ordering the clerk to register the statement of claim for issuance.

The matter was referred to in the legislature on Wednesday afternoon when J. J. Bowlen, Liberal, Calgary, read a prepared question as follows: "Why did the attorney-general instruct the clerk of the supreme court at Edmonton not to issue a statement of claim in the case William Aberhart and Ernest Manning?"

Premier Aberhart: "No such instructions were given by the attorney general. Why make such an insinuation? Why such a question.

Mr. Bowlen: "Were instructions issued? Who is running this province, anyway?"

Discussion then ceased.

Premier King

raging on one continent. A bitter civil war had just ended. All nations were increasing their armaments. In many criticism of governments was treated as treason, minorities were suppressed and freedom eliminated.

"There are strong reasons for hope as well as apprehension, but we must face the facts as they exist today," the prime minister told The German price in Czecho-Slovakia constituted one of the most important developments since the Great War.

HISTORICAL REVIEW

The prime minister gave an historical review of the circumstances which brought about creation of the Czecho-Slovak republic which, he said," amply proved its right to exist." It was not internal developments, but outside influences which gave rise to an urgent minority question in the republic.

League of Nations strength was lost after the Manchukuo and Ethiopian incidents, and with the breakdown of the disarmament conference a new armament race was started.

WEAKENED CONFIDENCE

Internal disturbance, and repeated purges in the Soviet Union weakened confidence in Soviet eastern ally. The Czecho-Slovak crisis developed rapidly. Mediation efforts of Lord Runciman failed when union of Germany with the Sudeten area became the issue. The next major development was made by Mr. Chamberlain on his visits to Hitler.

During this period war loomed up as a definite possibility.

Czecho-Slovakia resisted demands made on her. France agreed to support her ally and Britain stood ready to support France. Then Hitler agreed to a four-power conference at Munich on Sept. 29 and was not so much whether the Sudeten areas should be taken but how they should be taken. Neither the Czecho-Slovakia, which was not represented, accepted the result of the conference.

GREAT CONTRIBUTION

Neville Chamberlain had made a great contribution to peace and had been widely acclaimed, but criticism followed soon after. It was contended the way had been opened at Munich for Germany to extend territorial conquests and it could be said that war had only been postponed.

"I have no desire to intervene in the controversy as to which country has contributed most to the circumstances leading up to the present situation. I merely express my belief that, in the circumstances, Chamberlain followed exactly the right course in striving to prevent the outbreak of war. He exercised dogged persistence and never lost his faith, his temper nor his head. Peace was bought at a heavy price."

COULD NOT TAKE CHANCE

If war had broken out then it would not have saved Czecho-Slovakia whatever the ultimate outcome. It was possible the German government would not have insisted on its Sudeten demands had France and England said they would fight to maintain the Czech boundaries, but Mr. Chamberlain had "rightly concluded" he could not take the chance to plunge Europe into a war.

The September crisis revealed how deep and widespread was the desire for peace not only in France and in Italy, not only in Britain but in Germany. Hopes were entertained that war was averted because the rulers of states had met in conference.

PERIOD OF ANXIETY

Canada was not in a position to take part in mediation efforts but could and did support the efforts of Mr. Chamberlain. The period of the crisis was one of anxiety for Canada and the government received full dispatches which enabled it to follow developments. Mr. King read the statement he made then, saying he would summon parliament if necessary to deal with the crisis, but did not believe the cause of peace would be served by public controversy over what might be done in hypothetical cases. He also read his later statements expressing complete accord with Mr. Chamberlain's speech to the world.

There were demands however, for pledges by the Canadian government to fight for Czecho-Slovakia, to support Britain to the limit in war and to give other undertakings. He pointed to above how far other dominions had gone in this direction. The most vociferous statements came on the day when Britain and France in the interests of peace were exerting pressure in Czecho-Slovakia to hand over the Sudeten areas to Germany.

It has been reported that one out of every five of the 43,000 patents granted in the United States during 1938 had an automotive application.

proving trade in the next few months, and farmers can take advantage of upward buoyant market conditions, there is no reason why the price should remain at 60 cents," Mr. Gray asserted.

He recalled that the price guarantee was only one part of a larger agricultural program which involved other acts on farm acreage.

"We are going to work definitely as soon as the session is over and begin preparing hard for the party council meeting somewhere in May or June which may be the last meeting of council before at least one, and perhaps two, elections," said Mr. Gray.

"The platform will be whipped into shape in the next eight or ten weeks in preparation for the council meeting, and then will be gone over again for the election," he added.

FIXED PRICE

"I think it is sometimes forgotten," said Mr. Gray, "that farmers in Western Canada are not generally inclined to look with favor upon a fixing of prices.

"They would prefer operating on a flexible marketing policy, that would enable them to take advantage of buoyant market conditions rather than to operate on a basis of fixed and stationary prices," he pointed out.

Ten resolutions, dealing with agriculture, private debt and debt adjustment, youth, taxation, pensions and social justice, health, natural resources, co-operation of province and Dominion, transportation and unemployment, were discussed on Wednesday night.

They will be submitted to the provincial council of the party, where they will be either approved or rejected, announced Mr. Fisher.

Resolution dealing with debt adjustment, presented by a committee headed by Ald. Hugh John Macdonald, declared:

TEXT

(1)—That the principle of the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement act be extended to urban residents.

(2)—That several Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act boards be set up for Alberta to cover the debt situation completely within a period of two years.

(3)—That the debts so scaled down by the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act boards be spread over a period of 15 years with very low interest rates and that in any year, when an individual finds that by reason of adverse economic conditions or poor returns or low prices, he is unable to pay, that no principal payments be required for that year, that no interest be charged for that year and that the time of payment be extended for one year for each such year.

(4)—That the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act boards have power to reconsider cases already dealt with by them.

(5)—That the facilities of the Farm Loan board be extended to all citizens at a lower rate of interest.

FARM PRODUCTS

Agricultural resolutions recommended that "a nation-wide equalization board be set up to establish and maintain a minimum price for all farm products at a price which will compare favorably with prices paid in other branches of industry.

"We further recommend that such price be set sufficiently high that a percentage may be deducted from same by the Marketing Equalization Board so as to cover any loss through export or other means of removal of any possible surplus in any line of production," the resolution declared.

It was explained that such a board would be set up by the joint action of federal and provincial governments acting in concert.

Two resolutions dealing with amending of the B. N. A. act and urging co-operation between federal and provincial governments, read:

"It should be the policy of this province to approve of such amendments to the British North America Act as will give to the Dominion parliament power to legislate in matters which have assumed a Dominion-wide importance, even though, according to the interpretation of the British North America Act as it now stands the powers to deal with such matters would be with the province; as an example of such a problem might be mentioned the question of unemployment insurance."

Secondly, "That we do not adhere to the theory that the British North America Act constitutes a contract among the present provinces and that the Dominion parliament should decide as to the necessary amendments to the Act and should seek amendments from the Imperial parliament by address from the House of Commons and the Senate and in spite of the fact that a minority of the provinces might refuse to accede to such amendments."

Strong Protest Is Voiced By Chauvin Groups

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

CHAUVIN, March 30.—Voicing a strong protest against the proposed reduction in the guaranteed minimum price of wheat to 60 cents per bushel No. 1 Northern, Winnipeg, various organizations of Chauvin district today sent wires to Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Ottawa, urging that no reduction be made in the 80 cent minimum.

Wires were sent by the Board of Trade, the Chauvin A. I. A., the Canadian Legion the Chauvin Village Council, the Ribstone Municipal Council and the Chauvin Agricultural Society.

Wainwright Provincial Liberal Association is also taking the matter up immediately.

The proposed 80 cent figure would give the farmer an average price far below the cost of production, it was stated.

Village officials also got in touch with officials at Edgerton and Wainwright, who will join the protest.

Millet Farmers Protest Proposed 60-Cent Wheat

MILLET, Alta., March 30.—Ninety farmers gathered here yesterday and unanimously passed a resolution protesting the proposals outlined in a bill by Hon. W. D. Euler, Federal minister of trade and commerce in the House of Commons, to place an initial minimum pegged price of 60 cents a bushel for No. 1 Northern wheat, basis Fort William.

The resolution urged retention of the 80 cents pegged minimum price in force for the 1938-39 crop year.

WANDERLUST AFFECTS SIX LOCAL BOYS

With sunshine and balmy breezes destroying the last traces of winter, the traditional spring wanderlust is making itself evident in Edmonton. Six boys, four of them from the city children's shelter on the Ross Flats at 101 street and the other two from their homes in the city, are listed by police as "missing."

Last Sunday Lawrence Wall-er, 13, tall, slim, brown hair and eyes, brown shirt and light cap, left the children's shelter with John Dick, 13, tall, dark and slim, dark hair, buckskin coat.

The two lads told another boy they were going to British Columbia.

Missing from the shelter since 9 a.m., Wednesday, are Herbert Holden, 13, brown hair, blue pants, medium height, brown hair and eyes, and Roy Jorgenson, 10, small, fair hair and complexion, blue eyes.

A government ward, John Featherstone, 12, has been missing from his home on the Jasper road since Wednesday. He is of medium build, dark complexion, wearing dark windbreaker, light grey trousers, white toque with red stripes.

Donald McCann, 15, has been missing from his home at 9016 101A avenue, since Tuesday afternoon. He is described as of medium build, medium complexion, wearing long blue pants, grey jacket and grey cap.

HONOR NAMES MONKMAN PASS ROADBUILDERS

DAWSON CREEK, B.C., March 30—Monkman Pass Highway association headquarters here announced Wednesday plans for erection of a cairn at the Rocky Mountain divide to perpetuate the names of districts assisting in construction of the settler-built road from Hansard, B. C., into the Alberta Peace River bloc.

The cairn will be constructed in blocks and will be inscribed with the name of every assisting town, city or district. The names of individuals, who played a major part in construction of the yet-to-be-completed road will be engraved on bronze plaques on each side of the cairn.

SHOREHAM, Eng., March 30. — Spark from the exhaust of a passing automobile is believed to have caused a gas-main fire, the 20-foot flame from which held up traffic more than an hour.

NEW DECKS ON PAIR BRIDGES IS CITY PLAN

Low Level and Mill Creek Spans Will Have New Floors in Summer

Re-decking of the Low Level and Mill Creek bridges this summer is being proposed by city commissioners in capital estimates.

The Low Level bridge will have its present deck of wood with bituminous surface replaced by a concrete and bitulithen deck at a cost of $25,500. The city bears one-third of this cost and the balance is split between the Canadian National Railways and the Dominion Department of Public Works.

The Mill Creek bridge, at the east end of Whyte avenue, leading to Bonnie Doon, will have a similar deck at a cost of $18,000.

Work on the Low Level bridge will have to be delayed until after the royal visit and the July summer exhibition.

Capital estimates also provide for $75,000 worth of standard concrete and bitumen paving, $20,000 worth of grading and gravelling and $30,000 worth of concrete and bitumen sidewalks.

Part of the sidewalks, grading and gravelling will be on a local improvement basis.

Nazi Troops

which he will discuss with Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, and Prime Minister Chamberlain here April 3.

SPECIAL MEETING

Mr Chamberlain called a special cabinet meeting today. Its purpose was to discuss foreign affairs, particularly the progress made in formulating a united front against Chancellor Hitler's 'smash and grab" foreign pollow.

The Polish ambassador, Count Raczynski, called at the foreign office to discuss the latest developments. Shortly afterwards Winston Churchill conferred with Lord Halifax.

WARNING TO BECK

There was an inclination here to regard the reports of German troop concentrations as a warning to Beck to "watch your step" more than a definite threat to Poland.

The main object of the foreign minister's trip to London is to make a final decision on joining Great Britain, France and Russia in a mutual aid pact against German aggression. So far Poland has refused to consider joining Great Britain, France and Russia in a mutual aid pact against German aggression. So far Poland has hesitated about signing because it would mean abandoning her traditional policy of neutrality as between her powerful neighbors, Russia, and Germany.

In Scotland, superstitious maidens of olden times believed that snails, placed on a slate, would write the initials of future husbands.

Flying Halted By Water Over Civic Airport

Edmonton's airport still looks like a seaplane base as men in hip-boots work feverishly to provide drainage ditches through which the water can run off. Ski-equipped planes have been transferred to the Cooking Lake base, while there is still too much water about to enable wheel equipped planes to operate.

TCA mail flights between Edmonton and Lethbridge have been cancelled, although officials report that they may be able to make the flight Thursday evening, and at any event are hopeful of being able to begin their passenger services on schedule Saturday.

MALE CHORUS SUCCESSFUL IN CHURCH RECITAL

Metropolitan United church was the scene of a successful concert given on Wednesday evening by the Edmonton Male Chorus, under the direction of W. J. Hendra. Helen Barbour, accompanist to the chorus, was at the piano and R. R. Cooper was at the organ. The Men's Club of the church sponsored the concert.

With a program including a wide variety of numbers, the concert met with the complete approval of an enthusiastic audience.

Particularly fine work was accomplished by the chorus in the difficult Last Days of Pompeii by Ritz and The Bugle Chorus by Buck. In lighter vein was the Italian Salade, a humorous number parodying Italian operatic arias. With William Smith as soloist, this number was highly appreciated.

In these and the other numbers the chorus fully maintained the splendid reputation long since established.

Violet Cumming, contralto, assisting artist, sang Sanderson's Quiet; Eric Coates' Rise Up and Reach the Stars and Frank LaForge's Hills. Seldom has she been in better voice and her appearance was all the more welcome by reason of the fact that she has sung all too seldom in recent months.

Ian Docherty, baritone, the other assisting artist was heard to fine advantage giving a most creditable account of himself, specially in All Thru the Night.

In their choice I Know a Bank, Misses Kathleen Robertson and Kathleen Busby acquitted themselves creditably.

Mr. Hendra conducted with precision and authority.

Miss C. A. Lyon provided sympathetic, helpful accompaniments. Mr. Couper at the organ lent the necessary support when required.

U.S. Will Build Mosquito Fleet

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The United States navy disclosed yesterday it would soon start building a $15,000,000 "mosquito fleet" to supplement the projected 45,000-ton battleships and other major craft. Officials said the ideas of the Italian draftsman and the navy's own experts for small, fast torpedo-carrying "suicide" boats and for larger submarine chasers would be tested shortly.

HEPBURN PUTS GAS TAX UP IN LARGE BUDGET

Two Cents a Gallon Added As Ontario Revenue Boosted

TORONTO, March 30.—Premier Mitchell Hepburn raised the tax on gasoline two cents a gallon in Ontario today and announced to the legislature in his fifth budget address that the province would collect in the coming fiscal year $105,506,910, largest amount ever taken in by a province in Canada.

For the third successive year Mr. Hepburn, reporting to the house in his capacity as provincial treasurer, presented a balanced budget. He estimated a surplus of $236,038 for the fiscal year ending tomorrow and budgeted a surplus of $150,673 for the year ending March 31, 1940.

Raising of the tax on gasoline from six to eight cents a gallon was estimated by the premier to bring the government revenue of $25,000,000 in the coming fiscal year. The new tax is effective at midnight tomorrow.

In announcing the gas-tax increase, Mr. Hepburn referred to what he said was "a newspaper campaign conducted by one of the largest oil companies in the province."

"Every dollar of gasoline tax collected by this province has been handed over to the motorist by way of improved and extended highways and maintenance costs and the cost of servicing the highway debt," he asserted.

CONTRIBUTION RAISED

Out of the increased revenue, the government will hand over to municipalities $1,500,000 at the rate of one-half of one mill on the general assessment. This is in addition to a one-mill subsidy, and raises the total contribution to the municipalities to $4,500,000.

A year ago Mr. Hepburn estimated a surplus for 1938-39 of $288,677, and the figure he gave today was only slightly lower on the basis of 10 months actual and two months estimated.

EXCESS COSTS

Unofficial sources disclosed Wednesday that the figures of the Royal Visit committee's budget, in excess of revenue, would be $30,000, of which two-thirds would be borne by the province and the rest by the city.

Mr. Abbott Thursday either refused to confirm or deny this estimate, saying that he had told the provincial government he would not discuss figures and that the budget appropriations would be announced by the government itself.

No Time for Debate

France has gone Fascist for a time to save its Democracy, and Britain may do the same. Daladier has been given powers broader than ever before conferred upon a peace-time premier of France, making him a personal ruler as really as Mussolini or Hitler. Thirty-four parliamentary supporters of the Chamberlain government are demanding the formation of an all-party cabinet "entrusted with full powers over the nation's industry, wealth and manpower;" powers as comprehensive as those held by either dictator.

Rule by edict is the essence of Fascism, as of Nazism, and the antithesis of representative government. It has been adopted in France, and is proposed in Britain, only as an emergency measure, on the ground that arbitrary force must be met by arbitrary force. The dictators being a law unto themselves, quick decisions and quick action may be required at London and Paris. The methods these have employed elsewhere make it conceivable that either Britain or France might be attacked without declaration of war or warning of any kind.

Europe, the "mother of civilization," has come to a strange pass when nations used to governing themselves must submit to protective tyranny by their own statesmen lest they fall under the tyranny of aggressors who respect no conventions and even scrap their own pledges as a matter of calculated policy and regular practice.

Argentina Sells Some Wheat

Canadians will not have to worry as to whether they will be building up the Nazi power if they sell wheat to Germany. They shall not be selling any there for a while. The Argentine has agreed to trade 100,000 tons of wheat for German box cars and engines, and hopes to unload the bulk of its 5,000,000 ton surplus in the same quarter, and by the barter method.

British and United States industry has suffered a clear defeat, in a country where millions of British pounds and American dollars have been invested. It will be recalled that the only British Empire exhibition ever held outside the Empire was held in Buenos Ayres a few years ago. That was a tribute to the predominant place British exporters and importers held in the Argentine markets.

Canada's loss is not serious. Last year we sold 114,000 tons of wheat to Germany. That market is gone. But in proportion as Argentine wheat goes to that country it will cease to be an important competitor with Canadian wheat in other markets—markets more to be desired because not hedged about by barter restrictions.

Last year Canada sold goods to Germany to twice the amount we bought there—despite the rule that German imports from any country must be balanced by exports to that country. This heavy favorable balance could not be maintained. Germany was bound to cut down on purchases of something. It is cutting down on wheat, which Canada has in enormous surplus, but in so doing will ease the pressure of Argentine wheat on markets in countries which are less concerned about holding imports down to the volume of exports to the Dominion.

The Experiment Was Premature

The surrender of Madrid formally and finally ends the war in Spain. It is fortunate for the Spanish people that the outcome is decisive. There can be no aftermath of guerrilla fighting, sporadic revolt, harsh suppression and further destruction of life and property. Fought to exhaustion, the vanquished can have neither the spirit nor the means to invite further punishment by opposing the irresistible. Their weakness is their security —if they have any.

The Spaniards have lost the power to rule themselves. But that they have lost, or ever will lose, the will to self-government is not likely. A people once free do not forget. All that can be done no doubt will be done to extinguish the democratic impulse and reconcile the populace to dictatorship. That this will do more than secure submission to the new order of things cannot be imagined. The Loyalists may never rebel. But they will think, and find other means to restore the popular government that has been destroyed for a time.

The fact is, Spain was not ready for parliamentary government. Its people had no experience comparable to that of the people of Great Britain, where freedom slowly broadened down "from precedent to precedent". They are illiterate. They are used to being bossed. The "golden age" of Spain was an age of arbitrary rule and the national traditions are linked up with a feudal system.

The experiment in popular government has cost a million lives. It would have succeeded if Italy and Germany had kept the non-intervention pact. But it could not have been crushed had the Spaniards not themselves been divided on the issue. Time, there as everywhere, is on the side of liberty. Spain will again achieve government by the will of its people, but perhaps not in our time.

Editorial Notes

Good crowds at the play-off games at the arena warrant hope that the city's share of the receipts will meet the carrying charges and the year's instalment of the cost of the artificial ice plant. Two years' experience seems to justify the expectation that the plant will eventually pay for itself, the hockey players getting the added encouragement and the city the added prestige for nothing.

Nothing has been published yet about any of the provinces taking up Hon. Norman Rogers' offer to relieve the municipalities of all but 20 per cent of relief costs, the Dominion and the provinces to put up dollar for dollar to make up the remaining 80 per cent. The municipal councils should see that little item is not overlooked when the new relief agreements come to be made.

A farmer near Calgary paid $3600 for a couple of pounds of brass filings, which three strangers told him were gold. Why he supposed anyone would sell gold for less than he could get for it at the nearest bank is a point that will come out if the culprits are brought to trial. The surface inference would be that the buyer thought he was doing business with thieves. He evidently was.

Mayor Telford says Vancouver's defences consist of "a few pop guns in the parks, but we would be lucky if they did not kill the men who were trying to fire them." Can anyone imagine the mayor of a United States coastal city, or of a British, German or French coastal city, telling that to the world when international relations are almost at the breaking point? For obvious reasons, it just isn't done in countries where the defence question is taken seriously.

The European Situation

(FROM HANSARD)

Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King (Prime Minister): Mr. Speaker, the developments of the past week render it desirable that I should make a brief statement on the international situation. Many of the factors are not yet clear. When I come to take up the estimates of the Department of External Affairs, I shall seek to go fully into many questions which the happenings of last year and in particular, of the past few months, have created for Canada as for other countries.

I have been taken to task for some guarded references I made at the beginning of the month to the European situation. I pointed out on the first instant that a critical situation was still existing in the world, and that at some moment we might be called upon to consider questions larger than any we had thus far discussed. It will be realized now that these apprehensions had some foundation; so, I believe, had the feeling that the outlook was improving, to which I referred a week later. It will be observed that in stating on March 7th that I believed relief had been experienced in the foreign offices of Europe, that the situation had somewhat cleared in the few previous days, I was careful to add that I still adhered to what I had said on the previous occasion as something which, all the circumstances considered, it was proper I should have given to hon. members.

I made no claim to any exclusive sources of information, or to any ability to forecast the future. The form and place of the latest disturbance was a surprise to me, and a surprise to many governments more nearly concerned, and more minutely informed. I am sure this house will always be desirous alike of facing unwelcome realities and of avoiding giving way to panic or propaganda. I have myself no desire either to ignore the serious shock the events of the past week have given to the world's hope of peace, or to exaggerate the imminence or extent of danger, as if the world were heading for Armageddon.

We have witnessed this past week the wanton and forcible occupation by Germany of the greater part of what remained of the Czecho-Slovak republic. Following this example, whether or not with Germany's approval, Hungary has occupied the remaining fragment, small, but racially and strategically important. After Munich, it was hoped that what remained of the Czecho-Slovak republic would be immune from aggression. That hope has not been realized. There are other countries which do not regard the fate which has now overtaken that gallant and vigorous small nation. They regret still more the evidence a great country has given that it does not consider itself bound by pledges freely exchanged a few short months before, and that it looks to force as the sole basis of relations with its neighbors, and apparently with the world. The occurrences of the week cannot find any defence, as may have appeared to be the case with certain earlier manoeuvres, as exercises against excessive terms of self-determination and racial unity.

For the present at least, so far as we know, no country in all Europe is planning by counter force to undo the result of force in Czecho-Slovakia. It is rather a question of weighing the results and considering what further moves may lie in the future. What is now needed is to take stock, as fully as may be possible, and to be ready for developments as they take actual shape out of the fog of conjectures; to prepare for all possible contingencies.

Mr. Chamberlain, in his frank and moving speech at Birmingham, asked Was this the end of an old adventure, or the beginning of a new, the last attack on a small state, or the beginning of an attempt to dominate the world by force? He did not attempt to answer those questions, but declared they would require consideration not only by Germany's neighbors but by others even outside of Europe, and that the government of the United Kingdom would consider them in consultation with the members of the British commonwealth, France and various other powers.

So far as Canada is concerned, the government is ready at any time to take part in such consideration, to join in consultation with the United Kingdom and with such other countries as would be appropriate. I note that in speaking at Weston yesterday, Mr. Chamberlain told the House of Commons that Great Britain "requires to give full consideration" to the tense European situation in conjunction with other powers, "before any statement can be made." This wholly conforms with the statement made by Mr. Chamberlain at Birmingham on Friday last when he said:

I am not prepared to commit this country by new and unspecified commitments operating under conditions which cannot now be foreseen.

The first necessity for Canada, as well as for Great Britain, is to sift rumor from fact, to examine whether there is a probability of further drives, and if so in what direction, and in what form.

It is essential to clarify the actual issue that may arise. It is important to know what country or countries may be concerned, and whether it is a case of agitation and propaganda, or of economic pressure, or of military force. It is equally important to know exactly what policies are being suggested to meet the situation, and what measure of support and feasibility those policies are likely to receive. With this knowledge the Canadian government will have little difficulty in proposing to this parliament any action which it believes should be taken in the contingency anticipated.

If these were a prospect of an aggressor launching an attack on Britain, with bombers raining death on London, I have no doubt what the decision of the Canadian people and parliament would be. We would regard it as an act of aggression, menacing freedom in all parts of the British commonwealth. If it were a case, on the other hand, of a dispute over trade or prestige in some far corner of the world, that would raise quite different considerations.

Canada at all times has been prepared to consult, as occasion might arise, with other freedom loving countries as to the most effective means of co-operation and the contingency in which it may arise, are questions which this government will examine, in consultation with other governments. It will report its findings and any proposals that may result to this parliament, which has the sole and responsible authority to speak for Canada in such rare issues. I still believe in parliament as the most important of our national institutions; and in the supremacy of parliament, especially where the issue is one of peace or

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

With Europe being carved up overnight by the dictators, the troubles of World Fair planners are thereby increased. A World's Fair on a mammoth scale has been building outside New York. It is being rushed to completion, for King George VI and his royal spouse are to pay it a visit in early June. Before the Fact of Munich brought Europe peace in this generation, the industrious republic of Czecho-Slovakia contracted for a $400,000 pavilion with 60,000 square feet of floor space. Then came the Peace of Munich and the loss of the Sudeten areas. This led to a revision of the contract. The space was cut down to 45,000 square feet and the cost of the building cut in two.

ANOTHER CZECH PROBLEM ARISES

With half a million dollars worth of exhibits assembled came news that Hitler had dismembered Czecho-Slovakia. No country or government of that name longer exists. Say the fair directors: "What are we to do? We have a contract with a government that has passed away."

The building is still in an unfinished state, with scaffolding around it, unfinished inside or out, and surrounded by builders' debris.

Obvious thing to do is to leave it as it is, a gaunt and naked unfinished structure. Nothing could better typify the tragic fate that has befallen the proud and courageous Czech people.

I've been reading up a little on popular European fiction, and find that the author of "Mein Kampf" is entitled to the 1939 Pulitzer Prize, and the Nobel Prize (if they give one) for the most convincing and best sustained fiction. Here are a few proofs in point: Hitler, speaking in the Reichstag on Jan. 30, 1934, on the demand for the Saar Basin: "After the solution of this question, the German Government is willing and determined to accept in its inmost soul, as well as external formulation, the Pact of Locarno."

PRIZE FICTION FROM GERMANY

After getting the Saar Basin, Hitler marched his troops into the Rhineland which had been guaranteed by the Locarno Pact. After remilitarizing the Rhineland he told the Reichstag: "After three years, I believe I can today regard the struggle for German equality as over. . . . We have no territorial demands to make in Europe."

He prepared for the invasion of Austria by another speech to the Reichstag on May 21, 1935, in which he declared "Germany has neither the wish nor the intention to mix in internal Austrian affairs, or to annex or unite with Austria."

A week after German troops had been driven into Austria, Hitler announced: "The eternal dream of the German people has been fulfilled. . . . Germany wants only peace. She does not want to add to the sorrows of nations." His propaganda machine got busy in Czecho-Slovakia six weeks later and armies were mobilized to take the Sudeten areas.

He must be a convincing fictionist for he still professed peace to Prime Minister Chamberlain, that trustful statesmen telling the House of Commons: "He told me privately, and last night he repeated publicly, that after the Sudeten German question is settled, that is the end of Germany's territorial claims in Europe."

This writer repeats again: In the Fascist tactic, untruth is regarded as a legitimate weapon. Whenever a Fascist dictator plans seizure by force, he prepares by issuing protestations of peaceful intent. Only simpletons need have been fooled, by such professions, in the face of facts.

The various Catholic societies in Quebec that telegraphed their protests to Prime Minister King against Canada going to the aid of the Mother Country in the event of a European war, were a few hours too soon for wisdom. Next day Hitler made his demand for air bases in Iceland. With the proper ambition of Quebec to speed the day when the French-Canadians will be in a majority in Canada, one can make no protest. But when Britain is involved in any war with a totalitarian power, no pious professions for parliamentary resolutions will save Canada from attack. Totalitarianism knows neither gratitude nor restraint. It was the Catholic vote in Germany—aimed against the Social Democratic party—that put Hitler in power.

QUEBEC IS VULNERABLE

A Nazi air-base in Iceland would be aimed directly at Canada—the ripest and least defended plum in the Quebec basket. It would be the nearest target for Nazi bombs from Iceland. The surest way to keep Canada inviolate is to keep any European war in Europe.

RAIN ON THE WAVES

Not to know storms is to have missed the fullness of beauty. The placid, sheltered, uneventful life has not really lived. A forest in a tempest, a sea lashed by high winds, a life of struggle—only in these do we see the picture completed.

We were fishing in the Gulf Stream, amidst breaking waves, when a torrential downpour of rain befell. Then we beheld a wonder that was fairly awesome. The rain beat down the breakers into softly undulating billows. And as far as the eye could see the back-splash of the torrent covered the surface of the water like hoar-frost, a spectacle of rare loveliness.

Whoever would know the beautiful possibilities of life and nature must not shun storms.

Without troubles we would not have known Thee for what Thou art, our Father. And we thank Thee for all such glimpses of Thyself. Amen.

Japanese Scotch

Most people are acquainted with the story of how the Japanese, in their eagerness to secure world markets despite anti-Japanese prejudice, give a manufacturing town in Nippon the name of Usa. That enabled the manufacturers to stamp their products "Made in USA," for foreign trade.

Now, apparently, they have taken a still more startling step. A new town in Japan has been designated as Aberdeen, and from this town considerable quantities of Japanese-made whisky are being exported with an "Aberdeen" label.—Calgary Albertan.

Good Suggestion

Editor, Bulletin: From all reports there will be a great many visitors in Edmonton on June 2nd, 1939, when we will be honored with the visit of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth.

This memorable occasion has already started some talk about beautifying the city, as well as cleaning up a good many unsightly spots. I would, therefore, suggest that a vigorous campaign be made with that end in view. A year ago it was noted, in San Francisco, that they had started such a campaign in preparation for this year's fair and on their street cars one noticed stickers and on sign board the following slogan: "Let Civic Beauty be a Civic Duty."

These few words are very expressive and could be used not only in your newspaper but also perhaps by many of your advertisers. Such a slogan could also be put in the street cars as was done in San Francisco. Perhaps Hooke Signs, Ltd., might be willing to use such as "another thought" on some of their sign boards.

All citizens of Edmonton, and elsewhere, should keep in mind, "Let Civic Beauty be a Civic Duty."

Prohibition

Editor, Bulletin: Has anyone ever known any good to come out of prohibition? We boast of being a free country yet we imagine we can stop drinking by prohibition. Is it not much better to be able to take a glass of beer in the company of many than to drink alone.

I believe the best way to teach temperance is making one feel what a fool he makes of himself when he over-indulges. Not only in drink but in anything that will cause others and himself misery. When we feel the sympathy of others directed towards us—not because we are drunk—but because they realize how stupid, unintelligent and ignorant of the effect of over-indulgence, we are, we will soon begin to sit up and take stock of ourselves.

There is one thing we do not like to be told about ourselves and that is that we are weak in intelligence. Many when imbibing too freely, realize by the looks directed towards them that they have become a nuisance in the eyes of his fellow men. From experience we learn how ignorant we are in the sight of others and soon the thought will sink in and become a habit, that in future we will be more moderate. That is true prohibition. It comes from within and is forced upon you only when you realize what condition one is in before oneself to get in by not thinking.

I have yet to meet a bar tender who likes to see a drunk around. They do all they can to prevent a person from drinking too much and still not hurt one's feelings.

Let us not by prohibiting force our likes and dislikes upon others. If we want to improve our thought habits, can we not do so by feeling sorry for those that as yet haven't the will and education to govern themselves. This does not apply only to drinking but to all of our acts and thoughts. We cannot beat the law that governs energy no matter how we try unless we learn to use it for the good of us all. Prohibition will not do it. Never has and never will. Education by experience is our best teacher. Make one feel conscious of his actions by showing him how sorry you are because of his ignorance and a lesson is taught. Am I right?

Forty-eight years ago tomorrow, (March 30 1891) Sir John A. Macdonald wrote his last letter. It was to Sir George Stephen, then president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. Apologizing for his delay in writing, "due to the prostration of the recent election campaign, I having forgotten that I am 70 and more," Sir John said that it was a good thing the details of the McKinley tariff had not been made public before the polling or other how we (or rather we) learn to use it for the good of us all. Prohibition will not do it. Never has and never will. Education by experience is our best teacher. Make one feel conscious of his actions by showing him how sorry you are because of his ignorance and a lesson is taught. Am I right?

sano Creamery and Produce Company."

Mr. Plunkett points out that "The information shown does not reflect the final operating result for the fiscal year as inventories of grain and produce on hand were not available as at November 1," the period of the examination being January 1 to November 15, 1938. Mr. Plunkett stated, "The information shown was taken from the books of account and may be subject to adjustment during the final audit after the close of the fiscal year."

POLICY INDICATED

Mr. Plunkett further writes that "The general policy of farm management is indicated in the following extract from the minutes of a board meeting on Feb. 19, 1938." He then quotes from the minutes as follows:

"The question of handling rundown properties in the district was discussed. It was felt that the district should inaugurate a definite management policy, taking charge of these properties, improving them and restoring their earning values. Trustee Dahl was of the opinion that the district should build up one or two demonstration properties. The question of suitable supervision and supervisor was briefly discussed and will be studied further."

Commenting on this, Mr. Plunkett writes that "No specific authorizations appear in the minutes as to the nature or amount of expenditure incurred on improvements."

Turning his attention to affairs of the Irrigation Development Land company he states it was formed under the Alberta Companies act in January, 1936, and registered as a private company with an authorized capital of 20,000 shares at $1.00 each. Shares were issued as follows:

E. L. Gray, 5 shares.
G. A. Robertson, 1 share.

LAND TRANSFERRED

It is pointed out that on Jan. 21, 1936, some 5,658.708 acres of land were transferred from the Eastern Irrigation District for a "nominal consideration" and on Jan. 2, 1937, two additional quarters containing 320 acres were also transferred. These and other transactions are set forth and commenting on them, in respect to their receipts and payments Mr. Plunkett writes that:

"Payments in respect to farms and projects respecting wages expended on Eastern Irrigation Districts property. No explanation is given as to why these disbursements should be made by the Irrigation Development Land company.

"Payrolls were poorly prepared and lacked details as to the nature of the work performed. No signatures appeared indicating approval by foreman or company officials."

Mr. Plunkett deals with a situation wherein in August and September of 1938, charges were made to the E. I.D. totalling $1,361.50. Charges represented hiring of men and teams on the Rolling Hills project at $3.50 a day.

LABOR COSTS

Writing on this, Mr. Plunkett reports that "It should be noted that the actual labor cost distributed to this project by the Irrigation Development Land Company books amounted to $445.40 representing wages mainly paid at the rate of $35 per month. Teams, board and lodging in connection with the Rolling Hills project were supplied by the Eastern Irrigation District. It would appear that the district was overcharged by some $900.

"Payrolls were poorly prepared and lacked details as to the nature of the work performed. No signatures appeared indicating approval by foremen or company officials."

Later Mr. Plunkett writes that "Eastern Irrigation District advances include $1,378.00 required to pay taxes and legal costs in respect of the Haddington school district. A payment of $1,862.76 was made in November 1938 to satisfy a judgment obtained by the school district. Of this amount, the district assumed $584.71 representing arrears of taxes prior to transfer of lands to the Irrigation Development Land Company. The total payment was made up of taxes, $1,792.97 and costs, $69.79.

CASH IN BANK

"Cash in bank on November 15 amounted to sixty-seven cents. In addition the following amounts were held by H. J. Hamilton: Payment on land sale, Sept. 12, $15; cheque No. 42, H. J. Hamilton, Sept. 16, $100; cheque No. 44, H. J. Hamilton, Sept. 22, $40. Total, $155.

"I understood that the foregoing arrangements were made with a view to reducing or closing out the bank account but no explanation was offered as to why the monies were not paid to the district."

Mr. Plunkett concludes his report by stating that "In considering the financial position and operations of the Irrigation District, it is my opinion that the transactions of the Irrigation Development Land Company cannot be excluded because the latter is a separate legal entity its shares are entirely held by district officials and its operations have been limited to transactions in the district's behalf. No reference to the formation of the company appears in the minutes of the board.

"During 1938 the Eastern Irrigation District loaned the following amounts to the Irrigation Development Land Company:

"August 4, $500; September 2, $500; November 4, $1,378.05" this being a total of $2,378.05.

NOT OF MINUTES

Mr. Plunkett writes that "Authorization for the above loans does not appear in the minutes of the Board and I am in doubt as to the district's ability to loan monies under the terms of the Eastern Irrigation District Act or the Irrigation Districts Act."

Later, Mr. Plunkett finds an item "Cheque sales $112.20" appearing under Lakelands Farm revenue representing cream cheques received from the Crystal Dairy in November. Dealing with this Mr. Plunkett states that "I received no explanation as to why cream proceeds prior to this date had not been received by the district. As the district purchased cattle and hogs to be placed on the farm it is reasonable to assume that Lakelands Limited should account to the district for livestock produce. There does not appear to be an agreement of any kind in the districts files covering joint operation of the farm with Lakelands Limited.

"As previously stated, the subject of farm improvement and management is mentioned in a general wiy in the minutes. I question the propriety of the expenditure on the Lakelands farm without more specific authorization and a clearer definition of policy in the minutes of the board."

COMPANY FORMED

The Bassano Creamery and Produce company was formed on November 1, 1938 with an authorized capital of 20,000 shares at $1 each. Shares were issued as follows: E. L. Gray, 5 shares; W. McLaws, 1 share.

Mr. Plunkett states that "There is no indication in the minutes of the District that the Creamery Company is under the control of the Board of Trustees of the district."

Later in the report he stated that "On November 18, 1938, the district loaned $250 to the company. No authorization for this loan appeared in Board minutes prior to that date. The District's authority to loan monies, under the terms of the Eastern Irrigation Dsct Act or the Irrigation Districts Act is questionable."

In his concluding portions Mr. Plunkett writes "Under the terms of Chapter 34, 1935, Section 4, the Board of Trustees are given fairly wide powers in the operation and management of District lands and district properties. The minutes of Board meetings approved a general policy of farm improvement, although with the exception of Lakelands Farm, no specific properties are mentioned.

DON'T APPEAR

"The minutes do not set forth the nature of the improvements to be undertaken or the amount required. A policy of this nature should be specified more particularly.

"As previously stated, loans were made by the District during 1938 to the Irrigation Development Land Company and the Bassano Creamery and Produce Company. The District's authority to make loans of this nature is questioned.

"The District's relationship to Lakelands Limited, prior to the change in policy in October, 1938, is not clear. The Districts purchased and placed cattle and hogs on the farm during 1938 and it is necessary that they obtain an accounting for the proceeds from this livestock.

"The operations of the Irrigation Development Land Company are set forth earlier in this report. As stated, the affairs of this company are closely related to the District's operations but I am not aware of any useful purpose served by its organization. On the other hand it has resulted in a certain amount of confusion and expense to the district.

"I think I may say with no less sincerity than Mr. Chamberlain that there is scarcely anything I would not sacrifice for peace, but, like Mr. Chamberlain, there is one thing I must except, and that is the liberty which we enjoy and which we will never surrender. I believe this is the feeling of every Canadian who loves his country and cherishes its liberties. Acts of aggression and attempts at world domination by force are just as hateful to the people of Canada as they are to the peoples of the United Kingdom, the United States, France and all other peace loving and freedom loving democracies.

The flu is of a mild form, usually sending the patient to bed from two to four days. Mines are working with short crews, especially underground where workers seemed more susceptible to the malady.

The opening game of the hockey playdown between S.M.S. and Yukons mines, scheduled for Sunday, was postponed because of illness among the players. Almost all social activities in the mining camp have been postponed.

Scores of Goldfield householders received registered letters recently, informing them that the Anglo-Canadian Underwriters Ltd., of Toronto, had cancelled all fire insurance policies written by the company in the northern district. The balances on premiums were refunded. No reason for the cancellation was given.

In anticipation of a busy season the C.M.S. assay office staff has been increased. It is expected that the office will be operating day and night. Dennis Powers, formerly of Regina, is in charge of the office. The assay office at Athona Mines is also operating.

NORTH RED DEER

Red Deer will commence work on the extension of Electric light service to residents of Fairview Height as soon as the holes for the poles can be dug. Demand for building lots along the proposed route is brisk.

The Red Deer river is open here and bluebirds and crows have been noted in the vicinity. Gophers are also reported. The roads are drying up rapidly.

Cliff Dempiser has disposed of a cottage and two lots near the hall. Louis Herder of Red Deer will take possession immediately.

FAUST

To the numerous home-crafts of the children add that of Martin Barber, Dunn farmer, who runs a private tannery as a sideline, making boots for himself and family. Recently he presented his wife with boots that are on the market. Driffpile is on the south side of Lesser Slave Lake.

LLOYDMINSTER

BORDER TOWN TO INSTALL $60,000 SEWAGE SYSTEM

At a special meeting of the town council held Tuesday night, Lloydminster accepted a water and sewer scheme proposed by Mr. Scheaffer, Saskatchewan government engineer, estimated to cost about $60,000. Two weeks ago the council rejected a plan calling for an expenditure of $85,000.

The new system calls for a small water service and a reserve storage tank instead of the stand pipe first proposed. Some 3,500 feet of sewage pipes, at present laid in the business section, will be connected with the new system. Very few alterations are necessary in the sewage disposal plan.

NORTH RED DEER

The following petition is being placed in the hands of the North Red Deer council and will be forwarded to the provincial department of trade and industry.

Being informed that anyone doing carpenter work in or about the city of Red Deer must receive 70c per hour, or be debarred from accepting small jobs that may entail the use of a hammer or saw, at a small wage.

Therefore, we the undersigned, residents of the village of North Red Deer, who are not classed as carpenters, but handy men, have decided to lay the matter before the Minister of Labor, to inquire in that we shall not be discriminated against, causing a lack of employment and the necessity of applying for relief.

war. I may add that, as would be expected in the circumstances, no statement of the policy the United Kingdom government has in mind has yet been received, from London.

In spite of the shock in the world's confidence, there is no reason to despair of peace, or to cease working for peace. The world has come to be able to stand shocks, to make readjustments which a few years ago would have made open conflict inevitable.

The peoples of the different countries of the world do not want war. No government of any democratic country has any thought or intent of making war. No government of any totalitarian country can hope for passive acquiescence in acts of international lawlessness, as they come to effect a wider range of powers, nor can they anticipate victory over the limitless moral and material resources that would be arrayed against them. It is a time for preparedness, but equally for furthering to the utmost, conciliation and co-operative effort among all peoples.

I think I may say with no less sincerity than Mr. Chamberlain that there is scarcely anything I would not sacrifice for peace, but, like Mr. Chamberlain, there is one thing I must except, and that is the liberty which we enjoy and which we will never surrender. I believe this is the feeling of every Canadian who loves his country and cherishes its liberties. Acts of aggression and attempts at world domination by force are just as hateful to the people of Canada as they are to the peoples of the United Kingdom, the United States, France and all other peace loving and freedom loving democracies.

A rear-door safety catch, for sedans, which insures complete safety for the children and driver alike, is now being introduced by one of the leading car manufacturers.

TAX RECOVERY AMENDMENTS ARE DELETED

Conference With City Officials Results In Withdrawal

On motion of Hon. Lucien Maynard, minister of municipal affairs, amendments to the Tax Recovery Act, designed to bring municipalities under the provincial bill, were stricken therefrom. The minister's action was taken while the house was in committee of the whole discussing legislation.

Under this bill, no home owner occupying his residence can be removed from the property for taxes against him without the consent of the minister of municipal affairs.

Prior to the sitting of the house, Mr. Maynard discussed the amendments with Mayor Andrew Davison and other Calgary officials and T. R. Garside, Edmonton city solicitor.

The bill had been advanced to third reading, but was moved back into committee of the whole and after sections affecting Edmonton and Calgary were struck from the bill, it was reported for third reading.

If the amendments were included in the act, said Mr. Maynard, in withdrawing the inclusion of Calgary and Edmonton, it would mean that the two cities would have to take title to numerous properties involved in tax sale proceedings.

It was felt, he said, that the amendments could be dropped for this year in order not to disrupt the present organization so far as property going through tax sale was concerned.

In the meantime, he said, civic heads would consult with the province about the amendments, possibly new amending legislation would be introduced next year.

Certificates For Grain Payment To Still Be Issued

No change in the system of issuing participating certificates will result from the reduction of the guaranteed initial price of wheat from 80 to 60 cents per bushel on the basis of No. 1 Northern at Fort William, R. H. Settle, manager of Gillespie Grain company, said here Thursday.

The certificates are issued so that if the market price of wheat climbs above the pegged price, the farmer will receive the additional amount. Previous incorrect reports said the certificates would not be issued.

Lakeman Address

Communist party history in Canada, with particular reference to Edmonton, was traced by Jan Lakeman Tuesday night at a social meeting in the Emerald hall, 97 street. The meeting was held by the Queen's Avenue section of the Edmonton branch of the party. Music was provided by Mary Pashka, violinist, and Alex Patrick, harpist.

Your Health — By Dr. Frank McCoy

As the human body goes along from day to day, some of the cells that are constantly wearing out and must be replaced, somewhat in the same manner as the old parts wear out in your car and must be replaced with new parts. The body gets its rebuilding material from the nitrogenous meat and beans, but the ones first listed are the ones commonly used as protein sources.

Most of us get our protein chiefly from meat, fish and eggs. That is the easiest way to get them and the most satisfactory way from the standpoint of sensible dietetics. The vegetarians who object to flesh foods and who try to omit the meat and fish eventually find they have a much more puzzling problem in arranging a well-balanced diet than would be the case if they used the meat and fish.

In the ordinary mixed diet, little fear need be felt that not enough protein will be eaten. About a quarter of a pound of meat daily, together with one or two eggs, will supply all the protein needed, by the average person.

The person doing very heavy manual labor where there is considerable expenditure of energy will find it possible to use an even larger amount of meat and benefit by it.

It is interesting to know that the body is able to use protein in the form of meat or fish in two different ways. It uses it as a means of repairing and building up tissue; and in addition it can also use it as a substitute for carbohydrate, and the latter is lacking in the diet. It has been estimated that the human body has the ability to convert up to about 58 per cent. of protein into carbohydrate.

In the case of the growing child, I believe that an adequate amount of protein is extremely desirable, as the child has the same need as the adult for material to make good wear and tear, and in addition, he needs the building material which will be turned into added weight and height. Taking these things into consideration, be sure that your growing child secures enough of the indispensable protein.

I find that in using protein in the diet the best results are obtained when not too much is taken at any one meal. A meal providing steak, cottage cheese, nuts, milk, and perhaps eggs in the form of custard, contains more protein than the body is likely to be able to use at one time.

Use your protein, and realize that you are getting a valuable food in so using it. Don't attempt to get a protein such as meat is more or less of a "heavy" food and should be balanced by using plenty of raw and cooked non-starchy vegetables with it.

For example, when you sit down to your steak, try having a cooked vegetable such as spinach or string beans, and add a generous salad of the green leafy vegetables in the raw state.

Egon Grapentin Scores In First Edmonton Recital After Training In East

EDMONTON MAN TO MARRY IN COAST CITY

Invitations have been issued in Vancouver for a wedding of interest to many friends in that city and in Edmonton to be solemnized in Vancouver on Good Friday, April 7. At the ceremony Muriel Gertrude Kirk, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nidford Kirk, of Vancouver, will become the bride of Mr. Kenneth H. Seale of Vancouver, only son of Mr. Fred Seale and the late Mrs. Seale of Edmonton.

Mr. Seale is a graduate of Eastwood High school and of the Edmonton Normal school, and has many friends in academic and business circles in the city. The marriage will be solemnized quietly at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Townsend, 935 West 17th Street. Mr. Fred Seale expects to go to the coast for his son's wedding

EGON Grapentin, 18-year-old Edmonton violinist, received the plaudits of an audience of about 500 at First Presbyterian Church auditorium on Wednesday when he appeared in recital. He was assisted by Noreen Bristow, soprano, with Bessie Campbell Bowen and Henry Alack as accompanists.

Winner of the $500 scholarship donated by the Edmonton Civic Opera Society, for the second year in succession, Mr. Grapentin leaves in the near future to continue his studies.

This was his first recital appearance here since completing a year in the east.

HAS COME FAR

Previously he had made his concert debut at the Masonic Temple. On Wednesday he proved that he has advanced a long way since then. He has gained confidence, assurance, poise as well as a development that comes with greater maturity. Technically he is happily endowed. In this respect he has progressed a long way along the road to artistic heights. His intonation was commendable and his tone appealing.

On occasions he reached a brilliance in his playing that bore ample evidence of his capacity and in the more deeply-moving numbers he showed a rapidly-developing interpretive faculty that augurs well for his future.

If he maintains the progress he has made in recent years, he should go a long way in his chosen profession.

WIDELY VARIED

The program was widely varied and calculated to display his art to good advantage. Included were the Corelli-Kreisler La Folia; Lalo's Symphonie Espagnole; Sarasate's Zigeuner Weisen; the Handel-Flesch Prayer; the Schubert-Spalding Hark, Hark, the Lark; the Paganini-Kreisler Caprice XIII and the de Falla-Kreisler Danse Espagnole. Several encores were given, including Schubert's Ave Maria and Rimsky-Korsakov's Flight of the Bumble Bee.

Miss Bristow sang Pace, Pace Mio Dio from Verdi's Forza del Destino. One of the most appealing of all the Verdi arias, it was treated sympathetically, reverently by the young artist. She sang with an admirable emotional appreciation of the aria and throughout her performance was such as to impress with its sincerity and intrinsic merit.

To those two most excellent, always dependable and always lovely artistic accompanists, Mrs. Bowen and Mr. Alack, go many bouquets for their sympathetic support of the soloists.—J. O.

Scientists who are concerned with weather prediction say that it is impossible to foretell the weather with any accuracy more than a day or two ahead, and that long-range weather forecasting is all nonsense. Even so-called weather cycles which are used in long-range forecasting are very unreliable, they say. At best, weather prediction for more than a few days in advance must be only in general terms.

Weight Reducing Party Is Novel Entertainment

By ALICIA HART

The main reason health farms and beauty resorts are so popular with women who can afford them is that exercises, diets and such are really fun if others are carrying them on with you.

You know very well that a mask treatment is pretty much of a lark if your house guest feels like giving herself one at the same time. And weight-watchers will agree that it's much easier to stay on a diet if some member of the family is counting her calories, too.

Word comes from a sorority house in an eastern college that exercise classes are held one night a week, with the sisters agreeing on which night and appointing a different one to be teacher.

"HIPPINESS" A THING OF THE PAST

She outlines the old exercises to be done fifty times each and teaches her class how to do one new routine. This has been going on for months and the letter ends on the optimistic note that "hippiness" is a thing of the past in that house.

A stunning Long Island matron has an interesting story to tell about the weight-reducing house party she gave last month for the week her husband and the husbands of her three best friends were gone on a golfing vacation. She invited the three friends to come to her house and go on a diet.

During the first twenty-four hours of the for-better-figures-house-party, only liquids were served at mealtime—clear soups, fruit juices, black coffee or milk or clear tea. Between meals, pitchers of milk and orange juice were kept within easy reach of the guests.

From the first day on until the end of the week, each woman had only fruit, one slice of unbuttered toast and a hot beverage for breakfast, large green salad and more fruit for lunch, and dinner of lean meat, one portion each of two vegetables, another salad and a fruit dessert. Between meals, while playing hand after hand of contract, those who got hungry nibbled raw carrots or celery or plain lettuce or endive.

And each morning they did exercises together. Needless to say, by the end of the week, guests and hostess were not only thinner but pretty clear-eyed and smooth-skinned.

SIMILAR SYSTEM IN HOLLYWOOD

In Hollywood, many of the figure experts now take their pretty starlet pupils by twos, instructing them once a week and encouraging them to do their exercises together the nice days and not-so-nice days, who do not have access to the studio hairdressing shops, are getting more and more adept at rearranging one another's tresses.

Getting back to New York, the prize story of all comes from two women who go through the whole works from hair brushing through exercises to pedicures one night a week while their husbands are bowling.

They spent as much money as it costs their husbands to bowl for a year fixing up the adequate but not pretentious gymnasium in the younger woman's attic and they really do use it.

They say that they honestly look forward to bowling night—and that the weekly beauty party has done wonders for their complexions, figures and general appearance. Some variation of their example might be worth trying.

According To Culbertson

At match-point duplicate, when a declarer finds himself in an excellent contract and one that he should realize will not be general around the room, he should cast aside all thoughts of overtricks and concentrate on the main point—bringing home the contract.

In the recent Eastern championships top score on a certain board was won by a South player who landed in a one spade doubled contract. He fulfilled it—but probably does not know how near he came to converting his "top" into a nice, fat zero.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	NORTH ♠A 3 2 ♥9 7 5 4 ♦A K ♣9 6 4 3
WEST ♠K 4 ♥A Q 10 9 ♦J 10 8 5 ♣K Q J 7		EAST ♠K 8 7 6 5 ♥None ♦Q 9 7 3 ♣A 10 5 2
	SOUTH ♠Q J 10 9 ♥K J 8 3 2 ♦6 4 2 ♣8 6

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Double
Pass	Pass

I need hardly point out that North's bid was decidedly skimpy for all of the honor tricks. His selection of one club as the opening bid obviously was based on the thought that this was the only choice that would make rebid problems easy; that is, he could respond to any suit take-out except hearts with one no trump and could raise a one heart response to two. Although this spirit of preparedness was laudable, I do not think much of opening a hand as bare as North's. I must admit, however, that in this case the bid had a marvelous result. East passed over one club with the obvious intention of "trapping." I am inclined to think that he should have risked a one spade overcall. His failure to do so had an amusing outcome, since it was then South who bid a game, too, based on the principle of preparedness. His hand was not quite strong enough to warrant an initial heart response and a later spade bid, hence he avoided this "reverse responding" by mentioning his club suit first. Had West's takeout double was logical under the circumstances and East's leave-in hardly can be criticized.

West opened the club king and, unfortunately for his team, continued with the queen. Declarer ruffed and led a diamond to the king. Then, in a sudden excess of optimism at the thought of possibly making all over-tricks, declarer led a low heart from dummy. East discarded a diamond (no doubt giving declarer quite a shock) and West won with the ten. At this point a very shrewd play on West's part would have defeated the contract. Admittedly, the play required great foresight and imagination, but I do not feel that it should have been beyond the powers of a tournament player. West should have laid down the heart ace, cheerfully relinquishing all further position in the suit to give his partner the opportunity to discard another diamond. West could take it for granted that East had not left in the double without excellent spades, hence the greatest danger from the defenders' point of view was that declarer would make low trumps on a cross-ruff.

Actually West could not bring himself to lying down the heart ace and compromised on shifting to a trump as the best method of stopping the aforesaid cross-ruff. Unfortunately for him this play was ineffectual. Declarer went right up with dummy's trump ace and ruffed a third club with the spade jack. He returned to dummy with a diamond to the ace and led the fourth club. East had to follow and declarer brought home his lone queen of spades. A diamond ruff with the three of spades produced the seventh trick and fulfilled the contract.

It will be seen that if West had cashed the heart ace, thus permitting East to discard another diamond, and then had shifted to a spade the contract inevitably would have been defeated.

'MRS. DOC' —By TOM HORNER

The characters and situations in this story are wholly fictional.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

ALAN WARREN: Ambitious young country doctor.

EMILY WARREN: Alan's wife.

ERIC KANE: Construction engineer.

DR. FARRELL: Alan's elderly associate.

Yesterday: Eric arrives to find Emily firm in her decision to leave Alan. He faces a dilemma since he wants to be fair to Alan, but he loves Emily. Then Dr. Farrell comes in, asks what Emily has done to Alan!

CHAPTER XIV.

"WHAT have you done to that boy?" Farrell repeated, as Emily did not answer.

"There's nothing wrong — he hasn't—" Fear shattered Emily's calm.

"Of course he hasn't done anything wrong," Farrell answered shortly. "He came to the hospital, went to the delivery room. Outwardly he was the same. But he's been hurt, terribly hurt, Emily. He can't hide that from me. He's been like my own son. I could see it in his eyes. Now, what is it?"

Emily told him briefly, covering in terse, clipped sentences Alan's refusal to meet Dr. Peterson, her own intention to get a divorce. When she had finished, Farrell slumped into a chair, sat with bowed shoulders, staring before him. No one spoke.

For a long time they sat there—Emily, Eric and Farrell—thinking, and all afraid to voice those thoughts. Finally, Farrell rose, jammed his hands in his pockets and stood, his back to the mantel, facing Emily. She was forgotten.

"Do you really want a divorce, Emily?" the doctor asked kindly. Emily looked up, startled, surprised in other homes. He had argued long with other wives, consoling, advising. That was part of country doctor's job. He must be counsellor, confessor, friend as well as physician. To him a home was sacred, and always he had given his every effort toward preserving it. This time, Alan's home was endangered, and Farrell was trying to tend to let it collapse without a struggle.

"Don't you love Alan?" he continued as Emily did not answer. "Could you go through life happily, without ever seeing him again?"

"I know what I'm doing," Emily's muffled answer came to him. She was sobbing again. Farrell steeled himself against her tears. He loved the child, too. If he gave in now, everything would be lost. She must be made to realize fully the consequences of her action, and he, alone, could do it. She might resent the intrusion of an outsider, but he could speak as Alan's father would have spoken.

"I want you to be sure that you do, child." His voice was gentle as his touch might have been, calming her turbulent emotions. "I knew—even when Alan accepted Peterson's offer—that he would never leave Sumner. This is his life."

"But it's not mine! I can't stand it, Doctor, I can't. Alan's life. My life. Entirely separate. It can't go on."

"You're right, Emily. It can't go on. But before you give up, before you smash both your life and his, see if there isn't another way. You may think you could be happy without Alan, but you never will. Nor can he be happy without you.

"You want to blame Alan. Don't. Let's not blame anyone. But consider this: when you came to Sumner you were a bride—a gay, happy young bride, ready to begin a new life as a doctor's wife. The honeymoon lasted for a while. Then—

"You refused—unconsciously, perhaps—to assume the duties of this new life; you sought to carry over into your marriage the spirit of girlhood. And it won't work—it never will. You can't move St. Louis to Sumner any more than you can bring its parties here. You can't relive those days of courtship and first love; marriage is entirely different and you must face it."

Emily said nothing as he talked, but she marveled that he knew as much about her as he did; it was as if he could read her thoughts. Farrell had seen her increasingly discontent, worried over it; even, he said, manoeuvered so that Alan could be at home more. Cases that he might have sent Alan, he cared for himself, so that Emily might enjoy a party or an evening at home.

He had even sensed danger in Eric's coming, for Kane's love for Emily had not been hidden from him. He had trusted Eric to leave before breaking up Alan's home, he told them, and even now he was sure that Eric had not betrayed that trust.

"You thought that by taking Alan to St. Louis, you could regain his love," Farrell told Emily. "You imagined because Alan apparently neglected you, that he no longer loved you. You didn't want to go to St. Louis for parties, for the old crowd, even for Alan's family. You wanted Alan—all for yourself, so you wouldn't have to share him with others.

"It wouldn't have worked there, child, and it might have been much worse.

"I don't see how, Dr. Farrell," Emily said. Admitting that Farrell had hit the truth, she could not say hope of the future. "Certainly you don't expect me to go on here in Sumner like we have?"

"No, I don't. What you must realize, Emily, is that a country doctor's wife plays a vital part in his profession, as his partner. When you married Alan, you married medicine, too. You have your share of the obligation, and until you assume it you won't be happy.

"You would like to believe that, as a profession, Alan could be with you more of the time, that his patients would lose their claim upon his time. But Alan, unless he had lost heart, would soon have lost himself in teaching and study as fully as in his work here. You would be on this outside there, too, Emily, and what is worse, there is small place in a profession's medical life for his wife. With a country doctor it's different."

"I don't understand what you mean, Doctor."

"Let me tell you a story, Emily. It's about Alan's mother."

"She came to Sumner as a bride, even as you," Farrell began. "And she found her first few months of life here as difficult and as painful as hateful as you have found them. Sumner wasn't quite the city it is now, and there were few amusements for the daughter of a senator. She could go to church, do her marketing and that was about all. People's tongues were pretty sharp then, too.

"But Sarah Warren wouldn't admit defeat. When she found medicine was crowding her out of her husband's life, she became an important factor in that medicine, and working with her husband, she was with him constantly.

"She suffered many of the same hardships he did; she had a part in his successes; she was hurt by his failures—because they were her successes and her failures too.

"Even Sarah Warren to get up in the middle of the night, walk half a mile across town through snow, to send Dr. Warren to some other call, when she could not reach him by telephone or messenger. She has sat for hours at the bedside of a sick child so that the sleepless mother might get a little rest. She went with her husband on obstetrical cases, driving miles over country roads, taking charge of the house and other children, if there were any, assisting when she was needed.

"She learned to calm hysterical mothers, even to advise emergency measures—until she could send Dr. Warren.

"You were hurt when Alan couldn't go home Christmas. Did you know that when Alan had pneumonia, as a baby, his mother sat alone with him while he passed the crisis, driving 30 miles, over 30 miles away? She sent him on that call, too."

"But I can't do anything like that now, Dr. Farrell," Emily said. "Times are changed. Alan has the hospital nurses. There's no place for me."

"Yes there is, Emily. Times change, but patients do not. You can lend a bit of comfort, taking a call, far better than a switchboard operator can. And, what is more important, you can stop hating his patients and start being interested in them, so that he can talk to you about them. You can respect the confidence he places in you. You can encourage him when he needs it; you can learn when he is worried that he must not be annoyed by trifles. You may even have opportunity to help him in ways he has needed up at Carroll's the other night.

"In short, Emily, you have to be just what Alan's mother was to Sumner—Mrs. Doc."

They were all startled as Alan strode into the room. His face was pale and drawn. His eyes were dark, yet gleaming with hidden fire. He did not greet them.

"Kane," he said, "I want to talk to you."

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix—During my first year of high school I met Walter and I have been going steady with him for the last five years. At first I was terribly in love with him and was thrilled to death when he kissed me, but now the affair has just about worn itself out so far as I am concerned. I have talked to my mother about it, but she says I have gone with Walter too long to break with him and that people will expect me to marry him. I hate to hurt him, but what about me? BETTY.

Answer: Your case is just another illustration of the insane folly of "keeping company" and letting a boy monopolize you until it is almost as difficult to break with him when you get tired of him as it is to get a divorce.

The custom has all of the worst features of marriage and none of its advantages. For the unfortunate couple who have been going steady with each other are neither bound nor free. They have no right to control each other's actions, no certainty even of ever marrying, yet they have to have as much authority over each other as husbands and wives. Not without reason has it described a couple as in a "keeping company" as existating in a state of suspended animation.

Of course, the main risk in going steady has always been the girl's, for she got the best end of the bargain. She let some one man segregate her from the herd of boys and keep her for his own. She became known as Tom's girl or Bob's girl and was as much out of the matrimonial running as if she had been married, but the trouble was she wasn't married. She didn't have the feint held on her by a ring engagement. When he got tired or some other girl caught his fancy he simply faded out of her life, and that was the end of it so far as she was concerned.

It takes a lot of love to keep marriage a going concern, and no man or woman makes a greater mistake than to marry the one for whom he or she has lost his or her taste. It isn't kindness to the party of the other part. It is a crime against him or her worse than murder. And no one need be afraid that the aggrieved party will commit suicide. "Men have died and worms have eaten them, but not for love."

Raising A Family

Mrs. Brown was explaining that Larry was not getting on at the University. In fact he was about to be let out. Fortunately, his mother was not carrying on about it. She is a calm, philosophical person who can face facts without hysterics.

O. R. Barton

I know Larry. He is one of the original, personable chaps ever. He also has a gift of perseverance. I have watched him during through summer's heat, when most of his cronies were off at camp or taking it easy.

Now for the word that I knew was coming. "He never seemed to be able to read," said Mrs. Brown. "He dreaded school like a plague, because he could not take his books and make anything out of them. He could say the words, but somehow there was a gap between the mechanics of reading words and the meaning of what they said."

There you have it. "Reading" is more than reading the book correctly and saying the sounds indicated by the combinations of vowels and consonants. It embraces several kinds of mental gymnastics.

First of all, each letter has a name. The name is not the same as the sound. The second thing is that H is called "aitch" but says "huh". In time he learns the phonetics or sounds, so he can combine them with other sounds to make syllables.

And he must next to combine syllables ot make words. But in getting the mechanics of this, he may have to stop and spell out a word, that he cannot possibly throw out a sideline to gather in the meaning of what he reads.

He may be able to read a whole peg sin the daily paper when he is seven or eight and his parents are so proud and pleased they get out the encyclopedia to show him off to company. And all the time Johnny cannot read a line from "The Owl and the Pussy Cat" and knows exactly what it means. Reading and comprehending are as far apart as the poles.

Reading has become a real problem for psychologists an deven psychiatrists. Boards of education in larger cities have organized classes to undo the tangled complexes fathered by early inability to read. Don't scold your child if he is a poor reader. Patience and kindness will help him.

What To Do

I am entertaining a large crowd at my very small home. This will n e c essarily mean having people around or buffet refreshments. Since men despise juggling dishes could you suggest foods that are very simple and easily managed? I will be very grateful for your help.

MRS. C. M. P.

Answer—Even men will enjoy the informality of a buffet supper if the food you serve is easy to put on a plate and to carry. Hence, avoid stews, soups or foods that drip. Also serve no fine silverware a knife such as meat to be cut or rolls to be buttered. Instead of a small overcrowded plate give dinner plates, which give a greater feeling of security when held on the lap. Arrange the china, food, silver and napkins in sequence on the dining table, then let the guests help themselves. I'm sure your men guests won't object to holding a plate with a serving of spaghetti or assorted cold cuts, a mixed salad, a buttered roll, pickles, celery and radishes. Top this with a French cruller and plenty of hot coffee and your supper will make a big hit with your friends.

Minute Make-Ups

Start well ahead of time with your weekly hair treatments, before a new permanent. Massage warm olive oil into the scalp as well as into the ends of the hair. And for the best results, leave the oil on all night. Wrap a towel around your head and cover your pillow for protection.

Golfers Out

BRANDON'S ELKS, the hockey pride of Manitoba, worked out here yesterday afternoon at the Arena—and I still see no reason for any undue alarm on the part of faithful E.A.C. fans. The Elks are undoubtedly better than they looked in practice, most clubs always are and especially after a long train trip.

The western final that opens tonight will be the toughest test that the Edmonton Clubmen have faced this season. Brandon has class and power, but it is hard to estimate just how much of each. They may have enough of both to take the series, but if they have it will be a surprise to most of the rallbirds who watched the workout on Wednesday.

More than one Edmontonian who had been high on Brandon was carrying his head low after watching the Elk drill. Their chief solace was the well established fact that Manitoba junior champions have always been very tough citizens to eliminate from the dominion title chase. There have been clubs in the past from that province that looked bad and yet got enough goals to win out. Brandon doesn't look bad at all. The Elks appear to be an efficient outfit, but their workout here didn't uneover any of that "umph" that fans are wont to look for in champions. Maybe the boys will pick up the "umph" with the night's rest in their systems.

The loudly proclaimed "Sugar" Jim Henry, Brandon goalie, is active and appears to have exceptionally good eyes and hands. He did several things however that good goalies shouldn't do if they want to keep the puck out of the net behind them. I imagine from his style that he will find the E.A.C. scoring plays a little different from those he has been up against most of the season.

Comparing two teams, one of which is entirely strange to you, is the fastest way yet devised of making a fool out of yourself. It is doubly fast when your own club has not been given a severer test. That is the situation Edmonton dopesters are up against today.

The E.A.C. are not facing another outfit like Trail or Moose Jaw. They will have to get down to business tonight and shoot the works if they are going to win. They will have to be careful of penalties and give the very best hockey they have in their systems. If they do that, my hunch is that they will edge out the all-important first victory.

But regardless of the outcome, fans are assured of a real junior classic before this western championship is decided. It should produce a thrill a minute. The city is red-hot and a sell-out is practically assured. A party is already being made up to accompany the team to Winnipeg. Details are available at the C.N.R. ticket office.

Note To Torpedoes and Such

IF THE pistol-packing gentry of the underworld who are sometimes known as "torpedoes" are at all smart, they will read with alarm the scores that police revolver teams throughout Canada and the United States are turning.

Detroit is now one city that gun men avoid for Police Commissioner General Heinrich Pickert has developed his coppers into the best pistol shots in the United States. When they start to burn powder in that city now, thugs generally wind up full of slugs. Before Pickert made revolver practice a major requirement for Detroit police, the average score was three dead thugs to one dead cop. Now the average is 11 thugs in the morgue for one policeman.

Los Angeles is another city that has stressed police pistol practice. Officials there estimate that this target work has reduced armed banditry in the city of angels by 75 per cent. The Los Angeles range is also open to reputable citizens for side arm practice. Some 500 make regular use of it. Police heads believe that this many citizens who have revolvers in their homes and know how to use them is another big reason why the underworld hates to start gun play in Los Angeles.

This Makes Us Feel Better

GOLF balls whizzed Wednesday afternoon in Edmonton at the same time as the first flocks of ducks winged northward over the city. That means you can start swinging your clubs on the living room carpet —if you don't mind the mental hazard of a rolling pin hitting you the minute your wife sees you.

George Harris, Ed Kirkwood and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beddome were out on the 18th fairway at Municipal yesterday afternoon getting the winter kinks out of their swings. Messrs. Harris and Kirkwood did it scientifically. They took slow motion movies of each other's swings and spent most of the night studying the results at home.

Calgary to Draw Sellout As Dynamiters Face 'Cats

CALGARY, March 30.—As two confident hockey teams rested, southern Alberta fans hurriedly purchased most of the 6,000 tickets for tonight's opener of the Western Canada senior finals, featuring two surprise packages, Port Arthur Bearcats and Kimberley Dynamiters.

Railbirds were in a quandary after pre-game workouts which failed to show real power of either club. Despite recent flu attacks and current colds in the Kimberley camp, odds on the first contest remained even.

Bearcats, termed the strongest and best-balanced club to come out of Port Arthur in a decade, were favorites in some quarters, but in others spectators were inclined believe Kimberley really packs something.

Coach "Jazzy" Manahan of the lakehead squad, and Coach "Swede" Hornquist of the British Columbia mining town's brigade, both agreed the series will be a tough one against good opponents.

"After beating Saskatoon, I think we have a very good chance of winning the first game," said Manahan. "The players are back to normal after experiencing a little trouble with Calgary's higher altitude. I believe they will play just as good here as they would in Port Arthur."

"I think our chances of taking the first game is 50-50," Hornquist stated. "We have played against some of them fellows before and we have a fair idea of what they are like. Unless the whole team gets sick, we shouldn't do too badly."

Sturdy Barrier as Elks Battle E.A.C. Tonight

DAVE FARMER (Defense)

CLIFF KILBURN (Goal)

BOB PENTLAND (Defense)

HARRY PARDEE (Defense)

Four starty players, who mean to Edmonton Athletic Club what the Maginot line means to France—a very sturdy defence line. This starry quartet will be the big defensive power tonight at the Arena as Edmonton Athletic Club opens its best-of-five Abbott cup final against Brandon Elks in a championship series which is likely to have everything the hockey fan has bargained for. E.A.C.'s are champions of the far west, winning the Alberta, British Columbia and Saskatchewan finals and tonight they meet their first real acid test in Memorial cup junior playdowns. Brandon Elks, too, are proud champions, winners of the powerful Manitoba league and Thunder Bay champions. Both coaches report their teams in tip-top condition and the game starts at 8:30 p.m. Already a sellout "house" is assured and hockey thrills will come one a minute or even quicker than that.

JACK PURCELL BEATS WALLIS IN BADMINTON

TORONTO, March 30.—Jack Purcell of Toronto, world professional champion, led a select field into the second round of the first Canadian open badminton tournament last night with an easy victory over Jack Wallis, Edmonton pro.

Purcell, undefeated in tournament or challenge play for seven years, made every shot look ridiculously easy as he triumphed 15-0, 15-4. He qualified to meet Bill Markham of New York in the second round.

Two of the four amateurs competing eliminated professionals with young Ted Pollock of Kitchener, western Ontario champion, breezing past P. S. Aiken of Calgary 15-4, 15-6, and Jack Storey of Toronto drubbing Bernard Cook of Winnipeg, 15-1, 15-0.

Seeded No. 2 behind Purcell, Doug. Grant of Detroit won in straight games from Bill Pinkerton, Toronto amateur. But Grant, formerly of Winnipeg, had trouble in both games.

H. Smith and T. Lownsborough, Toronto, defeated P. S. Aiken, Calgary, 15-3, 15-9 in doubles.

VICTORIA QUINTET BASKET CHAMPS

VICTORIA, March 30.—Vancouver Westerns, dominion men's senior basketball champions last season, bowed out of the 1939 title picture last night when they dropped a 46-36 decision to Victoria Dominoes in the fifth and deciding game of the British Columbia final.

Dominoes, themselves former holders of the Canadian title, stepped into a 5-4 lead two minutes after the game opened and from then on moved steadily ahead.

Grove Has Hopes Of Good Season

SARASOTA, Fla., March 30.—Bob (Lefty) Grove held Cincinnati Reds to one hit in three innings Wednesday as he made his first start of the "grapefruit" season for Boston Red Sox. The Reds, however, gained a 1-0 victory over Jack Wilson when Lonnie Frey tripled, and scored on Ernie Lombardi's single in the ninth.

"I only hope my arm feels as well all season as it does now," the 39-year-old southpaw said. "If it does, I'll have one of my best years."

Bennett Begins Big Soccer Year

Soccer teams in the Bennett district, also known as Cloverdale, were formed last night. Two bantam teams, the Cloverdale Giants who will wear white and green, and the Cloverdale Royals, bearing blue and white colors, were formed.

Managers of these teams are H. Woolridge, 9748 93 street and B. Smith and L. Grantham.

Cloverdale Canucks, a midget squad, was also formed, while a juvenile team is also in the making.

Rangers Gain Confidence For Tonight's Bruin Bout

BOSTON, March 30.—New York Rangers, a self-designated "team of destiny" arrived in "the Hub" last night determined to win the fifth game of their best-of-seven-games Stanley cup hockey series from Boston Bruins after have pre-empted the Bruins' slogan of "four straight."

Tuesday night's 2-1 victory, in one of the most bone-crushing games Madison Square Garden fans have seen, appeared just the Fillip Rangers needed.

For tonight's contest there was more bonafide confidence in the Ranger troupe than at any time since the Broadway Mlunaires lost the first game 2-1 in overtime. Manager Lester Patrick, more or less silent as his team lost succeeding games 3-2 and 4-1, opened up considerably.

"Boston's objective was four straight," he said. "Well, now they're through. Now four straight is our objective."

In spite of Tuesday night's player riot Rangers were in good physical shape. Eddie Shore has a broken nose and bunged-up eye but otherwise Boston were in good shape.

Shore, gingerly fingering his taped-up nose said: "What's it matter? This is the 10th time I've busted it and anyway, Muzz Patrick didn't do it. It was a butt end from Phil Watson."

Wings Desperate as Star Lost to Squad

DETROIT, March 30.—Home for a last-ditch stand in Stanley cup playoffs, Detroit Red Wings were confronted last night with the prospect of entering today's game with Toronto minus Scotty Bowman and Sid Abel.

Bowman suffered a fractured wrist and Abel a sprained wrist when Maple Leafs defeated Wings 4-1 Tuesday night in the first game of their best-of-three semi-finals leading to professional hockey's world championship. Manager Jack Adams said there was a possibility Abel would play Saturday at Toronto if Detroit should upset the dope and win today, forcing a third contest.

Loss of Bowman was the greater blow and Adams decided to gamble by replacing him with Syd Howe, one of his highest-scoring forwards. Bowman has had one of his best seasons on the Detroit defense.

To patch up the weakened forward wall, Adams called on Don Deacon from the Pittsburgh farm. Deacon, Regina boy who never has been quite able to hold a spot in the National League, starred in the International-American League season with a scoring flourish. He will work at centre ice between Charlie Conacher and Hec Kilrea.

Detroit Wins 7-3 Over N.Y. Rovers

DETROIT, March 30. — Detroit Holzbaugh-Nord won its first game in the best-of-five games series for the United States amateur hockey championship last night by defeating New York Rovers 7-3. With the Rovers holding a 2-1 margin in games, the fourth game will be played here Friday.

Cummings After Mat Win As Tourney Nears Final

PROMOTER Mike Cutcher brings Bob "Bad Boy" Cummings back into the middleweight wrestling tournament spotlight Friday night at the Memorial Hall, and rowdy Robert has a definite objective in view, and that is to win.

Cummings meets Patrick O'Dowdy in the main bout of Friday's card. But O'Dowdy or not, Cummings is after a triumph for points in the tourney are of double value to him for the end is near and finals in the tourney are not far distant.

The bad boy has just completed a lengthy tour of many United States mats. He has sharpened up on his ring trickery and Friday it will be the same slam-bang Bobby as he tears into his Irish rival. A win for Cummings against the formidable Patrick would certainly give the Cummings' chances a big boost in hitting the final bracket.

There's support added to this main bout. In a semi-windup joust Dandy Dizzy Davis runs afoul of a newcomer. The new matman is Victor Hannibal, his whereabouts previously and his record comparatively unknown as yet.

A preliminary, also possibly featuring a newcomer, will start the card at 8.30 p.m.

Brownlee and Hicks, rolling in the Stub Ten Pin League, topped high honors last night at the Recreation Bowling Academy as they shared single and triple honors. Brownlee and Hicks each had single score of 278 while Hicks was best on the three-game average for a score of 693.

Preston, of the Burn's Mixed League, led by a large margin in five pins. Preston scored brilliantly for a 333 total in a single game, and rounded out a fine average for a three-game score of 764.

BOB JONES HOPES PUTS WILL DROP

AUGUSTA, March 30. — Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., retired "grand slam" champion of golf, figured Wednesday he might make a fair showing in the sixth annual Augusta golf tournament starting tomorrow.

"If I can get some putts to drop."

"When you're putting well, you're bound to score low," remarked the Atlanta lawyer who arranged this all-star show for his lone annual return to competition. In the five tournaments already played here by the "Fairway Master," Jones has failed to finish higher than 13th.

ST. LOUIS, March 30.—St. Louis Flyers — thanks to goals by Bill Kendall and Ralph (Bounce) Taylor — triumphed over Tulsa Oilers 3-2 last night in the third game of their American Hockey Association championship playoff series.

It was said Cronin would become head coach with Dean Griffing, coach of Riders for the last two years, line coach and centre.

Cronin was not available for comment.

Canadian Close To Golf Leaders

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng., March 30.—Wally Smithers, former Ottawa pro, carded a 73 Wednesday and saw a chance of finishing in the money as the qualifying field of 100 shot the first round in the Daily Mail £2,000 ($9,400) golf tournament over the tough Queen's Park course. Henry Cotton, of Ashbridge, and Cecil Denny, of Thorpehall, led the field with 69's.

Roy Conacher Close For Rookie Award

TORONTO, March 30.—Frankie Brimsek, young shutout artist of the Boston Bruins and a National Hockey League all-star in his first campaign, won the Calder trophy awarded annually to the best N.H.L. rookie, the Canadian Press announced last night.

Brimsek, a 22-year-old from Hibbing, Min., was the choice of 34 hockey writers who balloted on the best crop of rookies the N.H.L. has seen in years. Roy Conacher, sensational young left-winger of Bruins, ran a close second to his goal-tending clubmate.

The writers listed their three preferred rookies in order and three points were given for first choice, two for second and one for third. This was the final point standing:

Brimsek, Boston	70
Conacher, Boston	66
Roy Gieebrecht, Detroit	44
Jack Crawford, Boston	10
Wilf Field, Americans	6
Bill Summerfill, Canadiens	2
George Allen, Rangers	2

Winning of the best rookie trophy awarded by President Frank Calder of the N.H.L. is just one of Brimsek's startling accomplishments this season. His first and most astonishing achievement was chasing the great Tiny Thompson out of Boston's goal.

NEVER LOOKED BACK

Brought up by Manager Art Ross for the opening game when Thompson was shelved with an injury, Brimsek was so hot he never went back to the Providence farm club. Thompson was sold to Detroit and Brimsek was installed officially.

He allowed fewer goals than any other N.H.L. netminder this season, winning the Vezina trophy for that feat. He also led in shutouts with 10. Hockey writers voted him on the Canadian Press first all-star team.

These stirring records in goal won the Calder trophy for Brimsek by only four points from Roy Conacher, brilliant young brother of Lionel and Charlie. Conacher led all N.H.L. scorers with 24 goals in his first big-time season.

30 GAME CONACHER

Thirty of the 34 writers participating in the poll had Conacher on their lists. 28 had Brimsek and 27 had Giesebrecht, brilliant centre of the Red Wings. But Brimsek was named for the top spot by 18 of his selectors and Conacher by only 12.

The Calder trophy was first won in 1937 by Syvanus Apps of Toronto Maple Leafs. The winner last year was Cully Dahlstrom of Chicago Black Hawks.

CRICKET LOOP ELECTS SLATE OF OFFICIALS

Edmonton Cricket league laid plans for a successful season last night at its general meeting held in the Civic block. One of the main items under discussion was the constructive work done to boost junior cricket in the city.

The junior league will again operate this year, with the same number of teams entered as last season.

Owing to other interests, President J. Hodgson tendered his resignation which was received very reluctantly by the members in attendance.

A strong slate of officials was chosen to guide the league for another season of this sport and an optimistic note was struck for an equally successful year.

Officels elected were: President G. S. Bagot; vice-president, H. Sandilands; secretary-treasurer, H. Ward. Provincial delegates chosen were R. Thompson and J. Weaver.

ROYAL CURLERS MEET MONDAY

Annual meeting of the Royal Curling club will be held in the club rooms on Monday evening, April 3, at 8.00 o'clock.

Election of officers will take place, reports will be received and general business discussed.

Club prizes for the past season will also be awarded.

The chinchona tree is the principal source of quinine.

VERDUN DEFEATS PERTH WINGS, 3-1

MONTREAL, March 30.—Verdun Maple Leafs continued their assault toward the Memorial Cup here last night with a 3-1 victory over Perth Blue Wings in the first game of a best-of-three eastern Canada semi-final.

The clubs move to Ottawa for the second game Saturday. The winner will meet Oshawa Generals in the eastern final.

About 3,500 fans saw stocky Frankie Eddolls give the Quebec champions the lead early in the first period. Jack Eagan scored the Perth goal. Moe Dupont sank the winning counter and Fillion netted the final Verdun point.

Blue Wings boast a season record of 42 victories in 45 starts.

TORONTO, March 30. — Larry O'Connor, of Toronto, considered Canada's greatest present-day hurdler, said Wednesday he had received official recognition of a Canadian record of 13.5 seconds for the 120-yard hurdles. O'Connor set the record here last August.

BUDGE BEATS PERRY

PORTLAND, Ore., March 30. — Don Budge continued his march of victories over Fred Perry in a professional tennis match here last night, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5.

DODGERS WIN NORTHERN ALBERTA HOOP CROWN

TRIM Y-AMIS SECOND GAME TO COP FINAL

Edmonton Squad Advances Against Calgary In Provincial Final

Rallying brilliantly after losing the first game, Dodgers won the northern Alberta junior basketball crown last night at the McDougall high school gym, scoring a 34-24 triumph against Y-Amis to emerge winners by seven points in the total-points series.

COME BACK STRONG

Dodgers were defeated in the first game by a 23-20 score, but taking a 10-point edge last night they now advance to the provincial finals. Dodgers will meet Calgary Jimmies for the provincial title in a two-game series. They will travel to Calgary this Saturday, returning for a game in Edmonton the following week.

Coach Hal Betts' Dodgers took the lead after the first 10 seconds last night. From that point on they were never headed and ended the first half with a margin of six points. They matched the Y-Amis point for point in the last half and near the end took a lead in this session for a deserving triumph.

Captain Roy Johnston led Dodgers to triumph. The tall leader scored 12 points and was closely followed by the sharp shooting Maurice Lazarovitch who had 10 points.

ALL IN SCORING

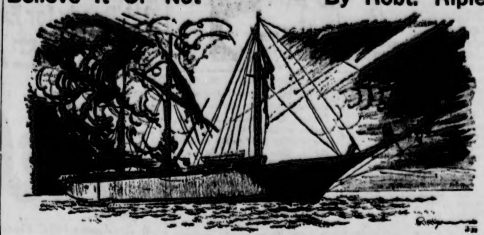

Y-Amis sent out seven players during the night and all hit the scoring sheet, but only tallying in small quantities. Don McIver was tied for top honors with Bryant Richards, each getting six points.

Ralph Hollingsworth, guard, played brilliantly until banished on fouls.

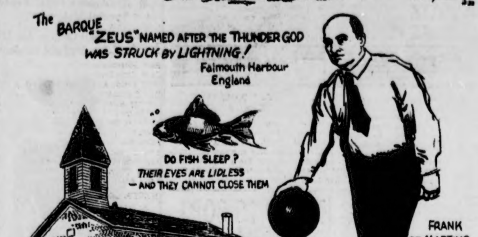

The game proved rough throughout, with 26 fouls called. 14 going to the Dodgers and 12 to the Y-Amis.

Ed Tomick and Hal Russell were the officials.

EXPLANATION OF TODAY'S CARTOON

THE FIRST WEDDING IN 100-YEAR-OLD CHURCH: On October 31, 1937, Margaret Kuhn became the bride of Milton P. Schroeder, breaking the 100-year-old weddingless record of the Tonawanda, N.Y., St. Peter's church. The lack of weddings in the church is explained by the fact that, until recently, the church had only itinerant ministers, who apparently were not available for nuptial ceremonies. THREE IDENTICAL BOWLING SCORES: Frank De Martino scored three identical bowling games on the night of January 12, 1939, at the Valley Stream, L.I., bowling alleys. In each of these successive games, his score was exactly the same in every frame.

BUCK HARRIS THINKS NATS MAY ADVANCE

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

ORLANDO, Fla., March 30. — Washington Senators plan to reach the first division in the American Baseball League this year by way of Cuba and Venezuela.

A Cuban outfielder, two Cuban pitchers and a Venezuelan pitcher are the lads on their spring training ball in Spaniah, and Skipper Bucky Harris thinks enough of their possibilities to issue this subtle warning:

HERE'S WARNING

"Any of the so-called first four teams had better not stub its toe or we'll be right in there."

One of the Cubans, Robert Ortiz was signed by Scout Joe Cambria sight unseen. He was picked raw off a sugar plantation and brought to Orlando where Bucky, through an interpreter, began to teach him rules of the game.

Ortiz has a remarkable arm. He gradually is developing a curve and is just comfortably wild. Harris says he is going to keep him and there is a possibility the six-foot three-inch, 190-pound youngster will come through.

FINISHED PLAYERS

The other Cubans and the Venezuelan are finished ball players. Robert Estelle, Nats' first baseman with Charlotte last year, is counted on to fill Al Simmons' shoes in left field. Pedro Montagudo is a left-handed pitcher who came up from Trenton to Washinton at the close of the 1938 campaign and Alejandro Carrasque, the Venezuelan, is a right handed pitcher whose playing has been confined to Cuba and South America.

Former Net Ace Has Slowed Up

LONDON, March 30. — Dorothy Round Little, 1937 Wimbledon champion, returned to competition after a year and a half layoff Wednesday and defeated Miss J. D. Fry, 6-1, 6-4, in the Herga tennis tournament. Critics, noting she was a little slow and tired, doubted whether she would be a serious challenger in this year's championships.

Rip Collins Sold

LOS ANGELES, March 30.— James (Ripper) Collins, veteran first baseman, was sold by Chicago Cubs Wednesday to Los Angeles Angeles of the Pacific Coast League.

"FAREWELL to SPORT" by PAUL GALLICO

"Paralyzing" Paul's Punch

THERE was another fighter who was a particular pet of mine—curious how one adopts these brutes—a black-haired, shuffling, heavy-browed German-American by the name of Paul Berlenbach, an ex-wrestler, ex-amateur boxer who became the light heavyweight champion of the world. His nicknames were "Punch 'em Paul," "Paralyzing Paul," and "The Astoria Assassin."

Gallico

Berlenbach was a simple boy from the Yorkville section of New York, untutored, unlettered, slow-witted, slow-moving, wholly lacking in animation or imagination. I have come into his dressing room many times before important fights and found him stretched out on the rubbing table fast asleep. They would let him sleep until it was time to lace on the leather and go into the ring.

But he had a magic, this boy. It was a numbing, paralyzing body punch that caused his opponents suddenly to crumple up as though they had been struck by a 44 club. It was a slow punch, too. None of your quicker-than-the-eye Joe Louis drives that are so swift that they blur on the camera plates.

Sometimes Paul seemed merely to be dropping his right hand to the side of an opponent, in the manner in which one places a friendly hand on someone's shoulder. Sometimes he would hit his opponent on the chin, but more often he just hit him in the side and caved in his ribs. Often it would happen in a clinch and you wouldn't see the blow at all. His opponent would suddenly wilt, go limp, collapse to the floor and stay there.

PUNCHED SILLY

Berlenbach had very little to offer in the way of defense, a matter which later proved to be his destruction, because he came up against hitters who measured him before he could get close and punished him silly. His only method of fighting was to shuffle in, pawing with his left glove like an awkward bear, and then sweep his right hand to the body.

He had a funny little jiggy step he would do to wind himself up to start an attack, and he did it every time he was disturbed or pushed or knocked off balance—one-two-three, hoppity-skip, and then would come the relentless shuffle forward again, head sunk low between his shoulders, black eyes squinting out of a dead-white face screwed up in complete concentration on his work, his left foot leading him on, his right foot dragging after.

I suppose that he was fascinating for the same reason that Dempsey was fascinating, the same reason that Negro Joe Louis is coining a fortune in spite of his defeat by Schmeling, because he had the power to destroy, to blast men like the ancient gods. It is a power given to very few fighters. They store their knockouts here and there, but not to many is given the aura of approaching and inevitable doom that Berlenbach carried with him.

With his black hair standing up stiff and straight, pompadour style, somber eyes, black tights, pale skin and sloping shoulders, he needed nothing but the black mask over his face to make him look like a medieval executioner. His victims were more than half hypnotized by the time the bell rang and they had to get up to face him. Joe Louis had the same effect on many of his early opponents. It is a powerful factor in the lethal quality of a punch if the recipient-to-be thereof is half scared to death before he gets it. Even if it isn't quite as hard as necessary to lull him to sleep, the first hard poke he gets he is liable to say to himself autosuggestively: "Oh, oh! That's it. Here I go."

WADING INTO FIRE

But Paul was vulnerable. He was too slow and methodical in his attack to have it constitute a defense. Dempsey never had to bother to defend himself during his heyday because he kept the other fellow so busy trying to survive. But every time Berlenbach fought, it was like a division going over the top and walking into machine-gun fire. Those that survived the head-on deadly blast and reached the machine gun nest blew it up and bayoneted the crew. But the price was always high.

Very often Berlenbach waded through sheer hell on wheels to reach his man, taking a brutal pounding about the head until he could herd him into a corner, pin him there, and work his magic on him. Once he had him there, one or two applications usually sufficed.

But Paul walked through one barrage too many. The first really sharp and deadly hitter he met in his sensational rise, a French-Canadian by the name of Ovila Chapdelaine who fought under the name of Jack Delaney, knocked him out. Or, rather, he stopped him. Nobody ever really knocked Berlenbach cold. But he had a curious and, for a fighter, a fatal weakness. Punches around the temple and high on the head made him dizzy and caused him to reel helplessly around the ring like a Saturday-night drunk. The technical knockout didn't stop him, however, because he had an antidote for his weakness—his total lack of imagination. His capacity for thinking was, I suspect, limited, and his capacity for memory practically nil.

INEVITABLE COME-BACK

Long after his career was over and he had been stopped and knocked loose from his senses many times, floored, and saved by a humane referee, I met him over in Astoria one day, and he mumbled that he was training for a comeback; he had had his hands fixed. "That was all that was the matter with me," he said," my hands. . . . Nobody ever hurt me or knocked me down, isn't that so? I'm gonna make a come-back. . . ."

They are always making comebacks, these derelicts of the ring. And he was talking to a man who has seen every one of his fights and suffered through more knockdowns than he could count. But before he retired, he did go on to win the world's championship at his weight, 175 pounds, and made himself a comfortable annuity and quit the ring, a thoroughly unhappy young man with sufficient income to live on the rest of his life, and nothing, nothing whatsoever, to do to occupy his time.

REGULATING OF BUTTER MARKET IS ADVOCATED

Would Pattern Plan After That In Effect In Australia

MONTREAL, March 30.—Suggesting that Canadian butter manufacturers be given the power to regulate their market as Australian producers do—"to enable the industry itself to try to cure the ills from which it suffers"—was proposed yesterday to the Eastern Canada agricultural conference by J. A. Marion, president of the Quebec chamber of agriculture.

Declaring an 8,750,000 - pound surplus had left about 150,000 of the Dominion's butter producers "helpless," the chamber president said that by contrast Australian butter-makers had "enjoyed great success" in regulating their market.

BEAR SHARE OF LOSS

"This is because Australian producers have regulated the home price through their power to export the surplus month by month and to require every creamery in Australia to bear its share of the loss in exporting such butter," he asserted, "even though a considerable number of the creameries concerned may not have exported any butter." Australian producers in this way had realized $20,000,000 for their commodity than they otherwise would have done.

Another drastic change was suggested last night. H. S. Arkell, special marketing commissioner for the Canadian government, declared Canada's export trade must submit to "regulative discipline" if the Dominion was to hold its markets in Great Britain.

WEST WANTING WHEAT MARKETS BRACKEN SAYS

MONTREAL, March 30—Canada's agriculture must be reshaped to meet changed world conditions, Premier John Bracken of Manitoba told the Canadian Club here Wednesday.

Premier Bracken said he refused to accept the "defeatist" attitude that lost markets could not be regained. Nations were poorer, he said, because world trade is restricted and because of this dangers of war are greater.

"I think that we in Canada should place ourselves on the side of trade and prosperity instead of on the side of war and impoverishment," he said.

No one in western Canada, the premier told the Canadian Club, wants the wheat industry bonused. The west wants only markets in which to sell. But if these markets can not be regained it means 30,000,000 acres now devoted to export commodities would be added to domestic production with disastrous results for eastern agriculture.

WHEAT PEGGED PRICE PROTEST BEING ADVISED

Hon. D. B. Mullen Declares 60-Cent Price Is Insult

Protests should be made to Ottawa by farmers in "massed formation" as a result of reports that a 60 cent, minimum price on No. 1 Northern wheat, basis of Fort William, Hon. D. B. Mullin, minister of agriculture, declared in the legislature on Wednesday. His statement was made in reply to a question by N. B. James, S.C. Acadia.

Mr. James declared that "According to press report, the Dominion government at Ottawa are proposing to fix the price of wheat at the ridiculous amount of 60 cents per bushel at Port Arthur."

Continuing, he said that "As this would be nothing short of a calamity of the worst kind to the agriculture of the three western provinces and would mean the ruin of our farmers, I would like to ask the minister what action our government contemplates taking to dissuade the Dominion government from taking this preposterous step and also what steps this government is taking to co-operate with the governments of the other western provinces to bring pressure to bear on the Dominion government to prevent them from implementing this suicidal policy?"

In reply, Mr. Mullen declared that the government had co-operated with the other two western provinces in bringing before the Dominion government the need of farmers getting at least the cost of production of their grain.

"We are not satisfied," he said, "with any 60 cent wheat in Alberta. The farmers in mass formation should protest to the Dominion government if the reports in the press are correct. It is absolutely an insult to the farmers."

Line Forms To The Right

Edmonton citizens formed a line more than a block long waiting for the seat sale for the Western Canada Hockey finals which begin tonight. The Bulletin cameraman caught some of those nearest the door. In the foreground a prospective customer eyes his line and bites his fingernails reflectively. In the upper corner is Lorne Binnie, 10251 109 street, who waited up all night, placed himself at the door of Mike's at 6 a.m. and bought the first ticket. In the lower corner Bud Briggs, 11111 85 avenue, is shown proudly displaying the tickets he has just bought as he steps out the back door of Mike's.

LIMITATIONS ACTION ACT IS RENEWED

Minister Outlines Action to Supplant Disallowed Measure

Replying to the Dominion government's action in disallowing the amending bill to the Limitation of Action Act passed last year in the house, Hon. Lauren Maynard, minister of municipal affairs in the legislature on Wednesday introduced a new measure to provide debtor relief.

In general the principle of the amending bill is similar to that which was disallowed recently by the Dominion.

In the amending bill introduced by Mr. Maynard the cut-off date for agreements on debts is July 1, 1942 and if action is not taken by that date to renew agreements, then action to enforce the agreement is barred. Under the act recently disallowed the cut-off date was July 1, 1940.

Speaking of the amending bill outside the house, Mr. Maynard declared it provided that proceedings must be taken on debt agreements entered before July 1, 1936 which become due before July 1, 1942 or they must be renewed after April 1, 1939, otherwise the action to enforce payment under the statute would be barred.

Provision was included in the disallowed act, that specified actions and proceedings in respect of debts incurred prior to July 1, 1936, must be commenced prior to July 1, 1940.

Further provision was made that an action to recover such debt could be commenced after July 1, 1940 only in case the person liable for the payment had entered into a new agreement for the payment of the debt since July 1, 1936 and before July 1, 1940.

Similar provisions to the disallowed act are included in the new bill.

Mr. Maynard, in moving first reading of the new bill, pointed out that the Dominion government, after having a whole year in which to disallow the act passed last year, had waited until the dying days of the legislative session here to make its decision known and this delay had been embarrassing to this government in dealing with its legislative program.

NO SURPRISE

He stated that he would not have been surprised if the Dominion had availed until prorogation had taken place.

Mr. Maynard pointed out that the only information the government had on the subject, was contained in press reports of the disallowance order.

He declared that one objection to the old act was that the period of time was rather short to renew agreements while another was that some agreements might not expire until after July 1, 1940. He said that the amending bill would cover these points.

E. A. Armstrong, sports editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, arrived in Edmonton Thursday morning to report the hockey series between Brandon and the E.A.C. He is at the Macdonald.

The Inquiring Reporter

Fall of Madrid marks the end of the bitter Spanish war and the beginning of the first major jest of Chamberlain's foreign policy to that war-stricken country. He has gambled on Mussolini's pledge that Italian troops will be used as a new jumping-off place for Franco's offensive! The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter asked today, and here are the prophecies:

COLIN HAY, merchant: Mussolini won't get out of Spain until he has got all he wants out of Franco. Why should he get out? He didn't go to war for Franco simply to show he has a soft spot in his war for the fellow. He was in Spain to reward Italian Fascism for services rendered.

JEAN COLLINS, student: At least the war is now over and there is no further danger of Spain embroiling Europe in a general war. That is one victory for the Chamberlain policy. Then, I must be remembered that Madrid surrender was not out of fear of Franco's forces, against which they had fought heroically, but out of sheer war-weariness. When the Spanish people recover their spirit they may rise and drive the Italians packing, bag and baggage.

GEORGE DOCHERTY, city clerks department: I think it all depends on how Franco uses his victory. If he knits all the country together, and allows the hatreds and animosities of the war to be buried, there will be a united Spain that will not be used as a base for Fascism. If he becomes the tool of Mussolini and it is not yet clear that he will, we can look forward to tense times.

RIVER LEVEL IS DROPPING REPORT SAYS

Water in the Saskatchewan river was down slightly Thursday morning, according to a report from an official of the Alberta Motor Boat Company. The river was at a slightly higher level Wednesday, giving hopes that the looked-for breakup might be near.

Ice near the low level bridge has not moved yet, but there are large open patches of water above the high level bridge.

Earliest date in recent years for the breakup was April 4, 1930, but a glance back through the river record files shows that the ice went out April 3, 1910. In 1909 the ice didn't move until May 6. Last year the ice moved April 15.

Proof that the weather is warmer is contained in the fact that Edmonton had its first grass fire of the year on Wednesday afternoon. Ground blaze at 88 avenue and 90 street was brought under control by firemen wielding wet sacks attached to broom handles.

Mercury Wednesday soared to 55 above and never went below the freezing mark during the night, sinking to only 34 at 1 a.m. Thursday. Temperature at 1:30 was 43 above. Fair and mild is the official forecast for Thursday.

CITY SCIENTIST AIDS TO PERFECT NEW MICROSCOPE

A former Edmonton, scientist Albert Prebus, and James Hillier of Brantford, Ont., have developed a new microscope capable of startling magnification powers while working at the University of Toronto. Devoid of lenses, the new microscope uses electrons instead of light waves for illumination purposes. Professor E. L. Burton of the University of Toronto supervised the work of the microscope.

To date objects too small to be detected by ordinary microscopes have been magnified 30,000 times and the young scientists hope that, when properly developed, the new instrument will magnify objects 100,000 times.

It is believed the instrument will contribute greatly to cancer research.

A-R-O-U-N-D ... THE TOWN

Members, wives and friends of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers will hold their annual banquet and dance in the Royal George hotel on Friday at 7 p.m.

Edmonton had a clean traffic slate Wednesday, not a solitary accident being reported to grateful traffic officers. On the same day last year one accident was reported.

Two mining men from eastern Canada, C. J. Fitzgerald, Little Longlac, and Henry N. Jordon, of Toronto, came to the city Thursday. They are going to Yellowknife.

Member of the business management department of General Motors plant at Regina, F. Webster was in Edmonton Thursday, a guest at the Macdonald hotel.

Edmonton bank clearings for the week ending Thursday totalled $2,933,747.48 as compared to $3,067,933.73 for the corresponding week last year, according to a report issued by the clearing house here on Thursday.

A former Edmonton resident, Arthur George Saunders, died at Windsor, Ont., recently. He was 70 years old. Mr. Saunders resided in Edmonton until 1922, when he moved to Windsor. He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. E. Halaman, of Edmonton.

Trans-Canada Airlines passenger representative, D'Arcy McLeod, announced Thursday that he will open a temporary ticket and information office in the rotunda of the Macdonald hotel Friday. Permanent quarters will also be in the hotel later.

Analysis of the vital organs of Victor Marciniuk, 19, whose body was found on the road near Wasakatenau March 19, has been completed, R.C.M.P. said Thursday, and an inquest will be held later in the week. Results of the analysis are being sent to Waskatenau.

Many citizens have been receiving inoculation at the city health board offices to immunization against smallpox, it was stated on Thursday by Dr. G. M. Little, city medical officer of health. He urged that this treatment be taken by as many as possible, as there has been no comprehensive vaccination program here for many years.

All Edmonton veterans of the "Old Contemptibles," first unit of the British Army in the Great War, will be organized according to a report received following a meeting in the Plaza Cafe Wednesday. It is estimated that there are about 90 members of the famed brigade in the city, and sponsors of the movement hope to have them joining in regular monthly meetings beginning in the near future.

Officers commanding Edmonton Militia units will hold a meeting to complete plans for participation in "military night" at the annual Edmonton Exhibition Association's Spring Show at the Armories Thursday night. The Spring Show will be held April 10 to 15. Brigadier G. R. Pearkes, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., Calgary, officer commanding Military District 13, will open the performance, after which Lord Strathcona's Horse will perform the musical ride.

Discussion Of Dental Bill To Continue

After hearing representations from various interested persons, the legislative agricultural committee adjourned on Thursday to meet again on Friday for consideration of the bill to amend and consolidate the Dental Association Act.

J. H. Unwin, K.C., Edson, declared during the hearing of the agricultural committee that the bill was solely in the interests of the dentists and without consideration of the public.

CITY ENGINEER IN 1939 LIKELY SPEND $457,000

Estimates For Year's Public Works and City Maintenance Reviewed

City council at a special meeting Wednesday tentatively approved expenditure of $457,000 by the city engineers department for the year 1939 and budgeted for $113,500 revenue, leaving a net estimated outlay of $343,500.

The actual expenditure in 1938 was $450,964, with a revenue of $118,092, leaving a net outlay on current account of $338,872.

Despite the fact that during the past five years, costs of the department's operating have increased progressively, this year's budget is practically on a level with that of last year.

PREVIOUS COSTS

Gross expenditures in the past five years, taken retrogressively starting with 1938, were as follows: $450,964, $412,472, $396,248, $374,431 and $385,191.

Tentatively approved expenditures for this year and last year's actual figures, respectively, are as follows: administration, $40,000, $37,910; public works, $88,000, $95,357; sewers and drainage, $45,000, $50,994; streets and sweeping, $145,000, $140,011; parks and cemeteries, $84,000, $83,934; stables, $16,000, $16,246; incinerator, $6,000, $4,476; exhibition grounds, $19,300, $17,630; sickness, $1,700, $1,371; vacation, $9,000, $9,052.

Expenditure for bridges would be up this year, due to extra repairs needed at the east end of Dawson bridge and the Groat ravine bridge City Engineer A. W. Haddow said.

SLIGHT INCREASE

Slight increases was made over last year's figures for scavenging and for operation of the incinerator, as the engineer expected longer hauls and more burning of refuse would be required. He mentioned that capital estimates would provide for four new covered trucks for scavenging in central areas.

"People are not careful of their garbage and let it get scattered around. Ald. Millard Ald. D. A. Grout said. "Would you support me," he asked the engineer, "in a plan to remove garbage carriers' list the name of every person who does not keep a proper, covered garbage can?"

"I'm afraid you would have a very slim voters' list," the engineer replied with a smile.

ENGINEER PRAISED

"I would like to compliment the city engineer on the way in which he has kept the streets cleared of snow and ice this winter," Ald. E. Brown told the meeting.

"Yes, we have heard many people praising the way in which this work was done," Mayor John W. Fry added.

"I think the credit should go to Mr. A. G. Smith, our streets foreman," Mr. Haddow replied.

Through The Mill

His story that he had just stopped for a moment's conversation with a woman he met in Edson in 1937, and had been in the woman's room in a 97 street rooming house for only a short time when the police raided the establishment was good enough to earn a young man accused of being found in a disorderly house a dismissal in city police court on Thursday.

The police who raided the place said they watched the woman walk from a nearby cafe to the rooming house, and saw the accused man following her at a distance of a few paces. The accused, however, stated he did not see the woman until he was about to register for a room in the rooming house.

Incidentally, the above mentioned cafe will never use the police description of the place in an advertisement. According to one officer who testified, the place is "the hang-out for all the undesirable characters in the city."

Not so fortunate as the young man found in the woman's room was the proprietor of the place. Charged with being the keeper of the disorderly house, he was found guilty and fined $100 with the option of four months "down the river."

"In all parts of Canada we have found it easy to arrange for complete co-operation between city, provincial and R.C.M. police forces and we have no doubt that plans for public protection and order during the royal visit will work smoothly," Mr. Abbott said.

He declined to give details of plans, but said that, aside from the work to be done by Canadian police, there would be Scotland Yard men aboard the Royal train.

CITIZEN SEES FIRST DUCKS FLYING NORTH

All through the winter hardy citizens have been turning up with stories of even hardier butterflies, and here it is almost first dandelion time again. But Harry Browning, 11827 106 street, goes in for bigger game.

Mr. Browning reported that he saw two flocks of ducks flying north over his home about 7 p.m. Wednesday. "There were about 15 ducks in each flock and they were flying fast and low, almost due north," he said.

TRAFFIC RULE IS POINT FOR DAMAGE ACTION

Public busses, conveying passengers in Alberta, must come to a dead stop at railway level crossings, and the driver must not proceed until he has satisfied himself that it is safe to do so.

This regulation, however, does not apply to public service freight vehicles, according to a judgment handed down by Mr. Justice W. R. Howson in the supreme court of Alberta at Calgary.

His Lordship held the Canadian Pacific Railway responsible for damage to a truck operated by Jones Transport of Lethbridge. The truck was practically demolished when a train backed into it at a level crossing in the town of Taber. The driver, fortunately, escaped injury.

Assessing the railway company damages of $1,017.07, His Lordship said there was a clear distinction between a passenger-carrying public vehicle and a freight-carrying public vehicle. The truck involved in the action belonged to the latter class, and in fact, the driver was prohibited by law to carry passengers.

WINGS OVER THE NORTH

Air-minded Edmontonians who have been just a little nervous about travelling by air, will be interested in knowing that at a meeting of the National Safety council in New York Wednesday an award for "conspicuous technical advancement of the safety of transportation" was given to United Air Lines, one of the world's largest lines.

The award was based on the development by that company of a device for the suppression of radio static on airplanes and a terrain clearance indicator. This last device tells the pilot exactly how high he is above the ground and prevents disasters such as running into mountain peaks.

Airline operators everywhere report that fear—fear which is based upon ignorance of the real facts—is the chief reason more people are not travelling by airplanes. Yet more than 3,000,000 travelled by plane or regular airline services in the United States last year. And the records show that there are fewer accidents per mile of travel in airplanes than in any other form of commercial transportation.

• • •

Every day new safety devices are being discovered. Recent investigations show, too, that only about three persons out of every 1,000 passengers suffer from air sickness—a percentage which is better than are train and car passengers favorably with land carriage.

Meyer Is Given' One-Year Term Perjury Charge

James E. Meyer, Edmonton, was found guilty by a Supreme court jury Wednesday afternoon on a charge of perjury and was sentenced to serve one year in the penitentiary by Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing.

Meyer was charged with perjury arising out of his trial on a charge of theft of raw gold amongst other articles alleged to have been stolen from an Athabasca store.

Two local employees of an Edmonton jeweller testified that gold had been sold by Meyer, but Meyer, giving evidence in his own behalf, said he sold no gold, but that he had received $12.25 for some second-hand gold jewelry.

Crown counsel Wednesday that Meyer had sold him two ounces of raw gold and had received $50 for it.

Forms for filling in required information are available from income tax offices banks, provincial government treasury branches and other points.

POLICING OF ROYAL ROUTE SAID UNFAIR

Bowcott Says Vets Won't Be Paid For Duty — Others Remunerated

Charge that present arrangements regarding the policing of the route to be followed by the Royal party on the occasion of the visit here June 2, discriminated unfairly against ex-servicemen was made by Sidney Bowcott, president of the Unemployed Married Ex-servicemen's Association, at a meeting of that organization in the Memorial Hall, Wednesday.

Mr. Bowcott stated that 1,000 ex-servicemen would be required to police the route and that they were expected to give their services free, while 150 Legion of Frontiersmen were in process of each under present arrangements.

Motions were passed asking that the executive approach the Royal visit committee with a view to obtaining car parking concessions, and that the committee be requested to confer with police jobs to unemployed ex-servicemen wherever possible.

Comrade H. Walker reported on the landing of families on relief and described them as "disgraceful" in many cases.

The Bureau of Relief Bill which has just been passed by the legislature was discussed by R. J. Metcalf. "This makes for legalized slavery and conditions are far worse than before," he stated.

Allegation By Vets Denied By Abbott

Informed of the ex-servicemen's protest, R. W. Abbott, K.C., chairman of the Royal visit committee, said "there is absolutely nothing to it."

"No one is going to be paid anything for policing the route of the Royal Progress and there is absolutely no warrant for Mr. Bowcott's reported statement," he said.

"In fact, we are planning to ask for volunteers to line the route and anyone offering his services in this respect will do so on a voluntary basis, Mr. Abbott declared.

LL-Col. Louis Scott, D.C.M., Canadian Commandant of the League of Frontiersmen, stated today the Frontiersmen had volunteered their services gratuitously, and that they were not being paid for any services whatever.

BABIES' PRAMS TRIUMPH OVER TURNING DOOR

Proposal that a revolving door be placed at the entrance to the new City Hall at cost of $1,000, met opposition from city commissioners when the building maintenance estimates were discussed with council.

The fact that baby carriages cannot get through a revolving door was the reason for the objection. Many mothers enter the Civic Block bringing babies to the clinic there.

Change in the entrance was asked by the treasurer's department due to draughts on the ground floor in winter and the congestion which often occurs at present in the narrow doorway.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. Cross: Resident 31 Years

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Cross, 54, of 10315 94 Avenue, who died Monday following a short illness, were held from the Hainstock and Son funeral chapel Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Cross had been a resident of the city for almost 31 years, coming to the city in June, 1908. Dr. George A. MacDonald officiated.

Mrs. Cross is survived by her husband, M. D. Cross, of Edmonton; a son, Edward, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edward Cross, both of Edmonton; a brother, John, of Glasgow; three sisters, Mrs G. C. Scott of Edmonton, Mrs. D. Morris of Vancouver and Mrs. J. B. Morrison.

Pallbearers were T. Stott, H. Smith, T. M. Smith, I. Hill, A. Calliston and Smith.

Interment took place at the Mount Pleasant Cemetery

CHEMISTRY

Chemistry is the science of analysis. For that reason, if a chemist wants a hem on rye, without mustard, give it to him that way. Mustard looms up pretty big under a microscope.

A chemist is very handy with retorts, which makes it tough for his wife.

A chemist is really an over-educated cook. After all, all he does is put on an apron and spend the day boiling, mixing, measuring and calculating.

A chemist will mix himself a Tom Collins with Citric acid, cherry bark extract, juice of the juniper berry, and a few carbonated salts. But he gets stinko just like anyone else.

In his laboratory, surrounded by test tubes, Bunsen burners, flasks, beakers and stirring rods, the chemist works with pursed lips and measuring eye. One drop too much of a certain ingredient, and the beer won't come out right.

Some chemists specialize in explosives. There last experiment is always a great success.

1939 Styles, Three of Which Are Illustrated

The linen-like spun rayon fabric is made by Dominion Textile Company—tested and approved as Courtauld's "Quality Control" for general wearing qualities. And now for the style points: ● Generous seams. ● Fine accessory touches. ● Enamelled patented slide fastenings on many. ● New color harmonies such as violet and turquoise, delft blue with rose. ● Prints that include the lovely "Wedgewood" type. ● Pique "Little Girl" collars on some frocks. Sizes 14 to 20 and 38 to 52. EATON'S OPPORTUNITY DAY.
